MINERS TO DEFY PRESIDENT

Rail Strike Peace Near, View

British Publisher Visits Switzerland In Quest of Health

HE THAT HATH EYES—The joy or the irksomeness of work depends largely on how much it is seasoned with imagination. To the horse, plowing is all pull and sweat. It is little more to the man behind, if all he does is pull and sweat. But that plow is a wonderful instrument, with a history that is the history of civilization. The civilized man is the man that plows, and the Aryan race is the race whose words for "plow" go back to the root "ar" (Latin, "arare," English "arable," and the like). The sharp forked stick, then the iron-shod stick; then the iron plow; and finally the cast-steel plow, invented to "scour" in the black soil of the Mississippi valley, with all the improvements of gang plows, sulky plows and the rest—these mark the evolution of this most universal of human implements. With the plow began fixed occupation, fixed habitation, the ownership of land, the discipline of labor and the valuation of peace. And the soil the plow turns over is but the dust and the rust of this globe of rock and metal. Out of this dust has sprung all life. The weather of the ages has disintegrated and deposited it, the life of ages is embodied in its humus. From it all life comes and to it all life returns. And it has an interesting life of its own—busy earth worms, nature's first and most persistent plowmen; and all manner of grubs and larvae, the nursery-hordes of the winged insect life above. There is the field and the water mingling to make available each year new stores of plant food, and to assimilate to the soil the added fertilizer. The plow share turns up, not mere dust, but a living changing substance, to the vivifying air. Out of this spring soil shall spring summer crops and autumn harvests which shall be for the feeding of the people and the profit of the husbandman. This is but a glimpse of the plowman's vision—if he have eyes to see. For this is only the scientific side. There is poetry and music and art and sociology in the plow and the field; there is beauty and instruction and joy in the pride of labor and the thrill of participation in the creative activities of nature—to him that hath eyes to see.

NEW WAGE HEARING PLANNED

Federal Board Promises Union Head Action On Application
FEDERATION URGES UNIONS TO AID MEN
Postoffice Department Reports More Trains Discontinued

By CHARLES R. LYNCH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
CHICAGO, July 19.—Settlement of the rail strike appeared closer today than at any time since the men walked out.

Striking employees were instructed to follow the lead of President E. F. Grable of the maintenance of way men, who received assurance from the railroad board that wage reductions will be given a re-hearing.

Grable held a long conference with Bert M. Jewell and other shop craft leaders before leaving for Detroit. It was indicated that Grable was acting as a mediator between the strikers and the government. As the strike went into the third week, both passenger and freight traffic showed effects of the walk-out. Many passenger trains have been discontinued and both freight and passenger service has been subject to delay.

URGES UNIONS TO BACK RAIL MEN IN STRIKE.
WASHINGTON, July 19.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor today called on all organized labor to assist the railroad strikers to win their fight by refusing to carry on any of the work dropped by the strikers.

The action of the executive council and reports to the postoffice department of the annulment of twenty-nine more trains caused the rail strike situation to become much more acute.

President Harding and Attorney General Daugherty conferred at length today on the situation after which the latter indicated the administration was framing a possible course of action.

MAYOR PLACES BAN ON SALE OF FIREARMS.
CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 19.—The sale of firearms and ammunition was suspended here today at the request of the mayor to forestall possible disorders as a result of the railroad shopmen's strike.

Dealers report a heavy sale lately but are complying with the mayor's request. There has been no disorder so far.

Husband's Visits to Jail Only Concern Of Slaying Suspect

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—There is only one subject upon which Mrs. Clara Phillips, charged with the jealous murder of Mrs. Alberta Meadows, shows any real animation and interest—her husband.

She is eager to talk about him at all times, and his visits to the jail are her chief concern.

Yesterday she refused to see her attorneys until after he came.

Since her arrest she has been besieging the matrons with requests that her husband be permitted to stay in the cell with her.

"Why can't he stay, he's my husband," she repeats.

BEAUTY WILL DENY GUILT IN MURDER

Defense Attorneys In Hammer Murder Case Bare Trial Plans

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—With announcement by defense counsel that Mrs. Clara Phillips will plead not guilty, both camps today were occupied in preparation for a court battle following her arraignment tomorrow on the charge of having beaten Mrs. Alberta Meadows to death with a hammer.

Sheriff's operatives stated that they have located the girl clerk in a five and ten-cent store, who sold Mrs. Phillips the hammer and had obtained a similar implement, which is of the claw-hammer type with a spruce handle such as was found on the scene of the murder.

The clerk will be called as a material witness, it was said.

Insanity Plea, Plan

Activities of the defense indicated that Attorneys MacDonald and Thompson were planning a case similar to that adopted at the first trial of Arthur Burch, which resulted in disagreement. That is, the contention will be that Mrs. Phillips did not commit the crime, but if she did she was temporarily insane and not accountable for her act.

The fact that under their advice Mrs. Phillips has never permitted the faintest allusion to the crime to escape her lips will aid them in establishing that she has no memory of it, it was believed.

Dr. R. L. Byron was called by the defense to give Mrs. Phillips a physical examination, which was made, according to Attorney MacDonald, in order to have medical record as to the scratches and bruises on her body, claimed by the prosecutors to have been received at the hands of Mrs. Meadows.

Cousin of Mellon

Armour L. Phillips, husband of the accused woman, added a sensational angle to the case when he admitted to newspapermen that he was a second cousin of Andrew Mellon, secretary of the United States treasury.

U. P. LAND IS CHOSEN FOR FAIR SITE

Executives Speed Plans for Big County Exhibition Here

With the Union Pacific right of way definitely selected as the location for the first annual Orange county fair to be held in Santa Ana, and R. D. Flaherty, secretary-manager of the Orange county farm bureau, as chairman of the program committee completing the preliminary list, two of the important preliminaries had been settled today and the way cleared for action along other channels.

Recommendation by the locations committee that the Union Pacific right of way be used was adopted by the executive and advisory committee of the fair at a meeting held late yesterday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

The locations' committee, of which Col. S. H. Finley is chairman, will take control of the U. P. right of way north from Third to Stafford streets. It was shown. Those portions of the strip not utilized for tents and displays, will be reserved for the convenience of the throngs attending the fair, and probably will be arranged as parking places. It is intended to prevent concessionaires from obtaining control of the property, and, through a charge for service, levying on visitors to the fair.

$1500 For Prizes

The two boards agreed to set aside $1500 to be used to cash premiums, cups and ribbon awards. This is twice the amount allotted for the purpose at previous fairs.

J. C. Metzger, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said.

Flaherty announced that the premium list would be available by Saturday of this week and recommended that plans be made for publishing the list without delay, so that it could be placed in the hands of probable exhibitors as soon as possible.

Publication of an official program was referred to the publicity committee, of which R. L. Bisby is chairman. Bisby outlined tentative plans for advertising the big exhibit.

Fix Admission Fees

Admission fees to be charged were established. Single admission will be 50 cents, with family books of three tickets at $1. The latter will be available only in advance of the opening date.

No season tickets will be sold, as it was declared that privileges accompanying season tickets usually are very greatly abused.

The fair management now has an active cash fund upon which to draw when finances are needed to carry out some of the preliminaries, the appropriation of $2500, made by the board of supervisors, having been made available.

Members of the executive committee present were D. Eymann, Huff, W. B. Williams, L. G. Swales, S. H. Finley, O. A. Haley, A. H. Moore. The advisory committee is composed of J. R. Scofield, president of the farm bureau; F. D. Flaherty, business manager, and H. E. Wahlberg, farm advisor, all of whom were present.

Announce Classification

The premium committee, consisting of Secretary R. D. Flaherty of the Orange county farm bureau; Farm Advisor H. E. Wahlberg; Secretary Malcolm Fraser of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce; and Murray Home, today announced the classification in department A, consisting of agricultural and horticultural exhibits.

Prizes will be awarded for products presented in what is termed the plate display and commercial pack. The plate display, announcement

RESCUE CREW OF VESSEL IN COAST CRASH

Coast Guards Take 12 Ashore After American Schooner is Wrecked on Rocks.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—The captain and crew of eleven members of the American schooner King Cyrus which went ashore Monday night at Point Chehalis, Wash., were rescued, together with their personal belongings yesterday by a United States coast guard crew, according to advices received here today.

The schooner stranded on the point while en route from Honolulu to Grays Harbor, Wash., the message said. No further details were given.

FRIENDS BOOM HARTRANFT AS CANDIDATE

It is neither political propaganda nor pleasing fiction to state that the many friends of S. C. Hartranft of Fullerton are really and truly attempting to strong-arm him into a candidacy for assemblyman of Orange county—and it looks like they are going to succeed.

While Mr. Hartranft has very frequently been mentioned in connection with public office, such mention has seldom if ever been of his own seeking or initiative. He is unquestionably one of the ablest and most popular men in Orange county, and his entrance into the assembly race is (or will be) to say the least, an interesting item of news.

Naturally he would command strong support in the northern part of the county, and no doubt much of the pressure upon him to get into the race comes from his friends in that section; but it is a fact of some significance that the Hartranft boom is receiving much support in Santa Ana, if, indeed, it was not started and is not managed by residents of this city.

Demands Joint Conference.

Lewis then emphatically declared that the miners will settle the strike only by a joint conference with the operators, regardless of what anybody thinks, says or does. Coal companies, he asserted, are now bent on destroying the unions.

Assurance that they would use all the powers of their states in giving protection to mine operators in reopening the mines in compliance with President Harding's request were received from ten governors at an early hour at the White House today.

These responses were from Governor Morrow of Kentucky; Kenyon of Iowa; McCray of Indiana; Davis of Ohio; Hardwick of Georgia; Spruiell of Pennsylvania; Hart of Washington; McChesney of New Mexico; Baxter of Maine; and Allen of Kansas.

Other answers are expected at the White House hourly.

NEW FIGHT LOOMS IN STRIKE

Will Call Out Pumpers If Troops Are Sent Into Mines

HARDING READY FOR BATTLE TO FINISH

Western Pennsylvania Operators Rush Plan for Re-Opening

CLEVELAND, July 19.—Coal produced by non-union miners under President Harding's plan will be handled by members of the big railroad brotherhoods without protest, W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, announced today. "It is foolish to assume that the brotherhood members would protest the handling of non-union coal," he said.

(United Press Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—President Harding's plan to force increased coal production, despite the strike of 600,000 miners, by attempting to operate union mines with strike breakers working under troop protection, received a sharp setback today.

Officials of the United Mine Workers served notice on government officials that any attempt to send strike breakers to the closed shop mines will result in a strike of the union engineers, pump men and other workers now working to prevent the mines from filling with water and otherwise deteriorating.

"The moment operators attempt to operate a union mine with strike breakers, the maintenance men will strike," said an official of the miners' union.

"These mines are pledged to the closed shop and these maintenance workers absolutely will not work alongside of strike breakers, even if the national officers would urge them to do so," he declared.

The striking miners cannot be driven back to the mines, President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers, warned today in an exclusive statement to the United Press, prompted by President Harding's plan to reopen the mines with troop protection.

Lewis then emphatically declared that the miners will settle the strike only by a joint conference with the operators, regardless of what anybody thinks, says or does. Coal companies, he asserted, are now bent on destroying the unions.

Assurance that they would use all the powers of their states in giving protection to mine operators in reopening the mines in compliance with President Harding's request were received from ten governors at an early hour at the White House today.

WOMAN DIES AS SALE OF PROPERTY PENDS

Alfred H. Bailey had today filed a petition in the superior court for probate of the will of Alvina M. Bailey, who died July 4 in Spokane, Wash., leaving an estate in Orange county.

Property at Fullerton, valued at $7,500, constituted the estate. The petition sets forth that at the time of her death the deceased had been negotiating the sale of the property, the papers being in escrow.

Attorney Z. B. West Jr. of Santa Ana represents the petitioner.

EXONERATES MAN IN SERUM FRAUD TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—Melbourne Amiraault was exonerated today of charges of having feigned injury to secure damage payments, following an auto accident, when his case was dismissed by Judge Hinshaw. It was claimed that Amiraault after his injury had submitted to an injection of serum to counterfeit paralysis.

NEBRASKA PRIMARY VOTE FIGHT CLOSE

OMAHA, Neb., July 19.—R. Beecher Howell's apparent victory in Tuesday's primaries for the Republican senatorial nomination is considered here another defeat for the Harding administration. Howell featured his campaign with opposition to the Esch-Cummins bill and other administration measures, while Congressman A. W. Jeffers, his nearest opponent, made his fight on his record in congress under the Harding administration.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 19.—With 808 precincts out of 1913 in the state heard from, Charles E. Randall, running on a "business man for governor" platform for the Republican nomination had increased his lead over Adam McMullen. Randall had polled 25,761 votes to McMullen's 23,555.

In the race for the Republican nomination for United States senator, R. Beecher Howell, progressive Republican, was leading Congressman A. W. Jeffers, who made the race on his record in congress under the Harding administration, by 4,409 votes.

Attorney General Davis was developing considerable strength as late reports came trickling in and his supporters insist he will beat Jeffers and run Howell a close race.

Eight hundred and five precincts out of 1,913 in the state gave Howell 18,976; Jeffers 14,567; Davis 12,444; C. H. Gustafson, 7,109; John O. Yeiser, 2,112.

Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock had a big lead for the Democratic nomination and is undoubtedly the winner.

"30" BULLETINS

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—Tilly Walker, Philadelphia outfielder, knocked two homers in today's game with the St. Louis Browns. This gives Walker the lead in the American League, with a total of 23. Previous to the two clouts, he was tied with Ken Williams.

THE HAGUE, July 19.—The Hague conference, upon which hung so many hopes of peace and rehabilitation of Europe and relations with Russia, was formally declared closed today by a resolution of a full commission of delegates at which the soviet representatives were not present.

510 PLEDGORS TO 'Y' FUND DELINQUENT

Five hundred and ten pledgors to the Y. M. C. A. building fund are delinquent in the payments pledged for July 1, E. B. Sprague, treasurer, reported to the board of directors of the organization last night, it was announced today.

Sprague said that since he had mailed notices to those who had not made their first payments, pledgors were paying up at the rate of about sixty each day. He anticipated most of the obligations being met before the end of the month. Absence from the city of a great many of the contributors was assigned as one of the causes for delinquencies. Sprague reported a balance in the building fund of $29,497.75.

Sprague, as chairman of a committee composed of himself, Alex Brownridge and J. A. Cranston, appointed to make investigations as to the qualifications of Ralph C. Smedley, of San Jose, for the position of building secretary here, recommended that he be employed for the period of construction of the building at a monthly salary of $275.

The report was accepted and the committee was authorized to submit to Smedley a proposition for his employment on the terms recommended.

October 1 was designated as a date that would be satisfactory to the directors for Smedley to take up his work here. Construction work may start about April 1. Investigations by the committee brought forth the very highest recommendations as to his qualifications for advising and assisting in the directing of plans and their execution. He directed the planning and construction of Y buildings at Rock Island, Bloomington, Monmouth, Peoria, and Freeport, Ill., and assisted also in directing fund raising campaigns. In addition he served for three years with an Eastern architect, for whom he specially investigated Y buildings already constructed and for whom he drew plans for such buildings. It is said that he has either directed or had connection with the development of plans for 130 Y buildings in the East.

To Assist Architect Smedley's preliminary service here will be in assisting a local architect in drafting plans for the local plant, and later supervising construction. He is now employed at San Jose, Cal., as general secretary, where he is declared to be giving the best of satisfaction. A desire on his part to come to Southern California is said to be the inducement for him to give consideration to accepting employment here.

Recommendation of Alex Brownridge and his committee that two pepper trees on the building site, the Washington school grounds at Sycamore and Church, be removed, was accepted. The committee was empowered to have the trees removed at an expense not to exceed $100. D. F. Pinchick, of this city, has offered to do the work at this price. Removal of the trees is necessary in connection with use of the grounds for athletics.

Articles of Incorporation have been returned from the office of the secretary of state and the Y. M. C. A. of Santa Ana now has official existence. The articles were filed with the secretary of the association last night by L. A. West. Upon motion of West a vote of thanks was tendered to Attorney H. J. Forgy for his services in drawing the articles.

Directors present were Col. S. H. Finley, chairman; F. C. Blauer, secretary; Alex Brownridge, E. B. Sprague, J. A. Cranston, H. A. Lake, C. H. Chapman, L. A. West, C. A. Miller, W. D. Baker, W. B. Tedford and J. P. Baumgartner. E. T. Sims, business secretary of the state association, also was present.

SOLD SLEUTHS WATER, CLAIMS RUM SUSPECT

"I knew they were detectives trying to get evidence of bootlegging, so I sold them a bottle of water."

Guadalupe Benitez, proprietor of a Los Alamitos billiard hall, today made this explanation gleefully in pleading not guilty to a charge of selling liquor. Justice J. S. Howard, of Anaheim, in whose court Benitez was arraigned, set the trial for August 16 at 10 a. m.

Sheriff C. E. Jackson's retort to Benitez's asserted joke was to file a charge of gambling against the Mexican.

"I never smelled that kind of a smell on water before," Jackson remarked with reference to the bottle of liquid sold by Benitez.

to protect the mines of all operators willing to resume coal production. President Harding has thrown down the gage of battle to the United Mine Workers of America, probably the most powerful single body of organized workers in the country.

Should the president's plan fail to bring about a large increase in coal production within a short time, there will be but one course open to the government—seizure and operation of the mines.

In his call upon the twenty-eight governors Harding has in effect ordered the mobilization of more than 1,000,000 armed men on the side of the public, it was estimated.

JEWISH AUDIENCE HEARS ATTORNEY

With the officers of the Los Angeles lodge in charge, the first installation of officers in the B'nai B'rith lodge, recently organized in Santa Ana, took place last night at Odd Fellows' hall here. It was an epochal event in the history of the local Jewish community.

The installation was preceded by the initiation of twenty-three members, conducted impressively by the Los Angeles degree team. After the installation, which was in charge of Attorney M. J. Finkenstein, Rabbi Magnin introduced Lucius Solomons of San Francisco, as the speaker of the evening.

Solomons, who is grand vice president of the Order B'nai B'rith, having 851 subordinate lodges in the United States, kept the audience spellbound more than an hour. His address was educational and spiritual. He portrayed vividly the viciousness and bigotry of the Russian reactionary organizations formed in this country for the sole purpose of poisoning the minds of the liberty-loving American people. He told forcibly how the B'nai B'rith organization is combating these anti-Semitic agencies by means of education in disseminating true facts regarding the Jewish people, of its aims to promote good deeds, good living and real sacrifice. He outlined the objects of the order and the scope of the work it is doing in benevolence and charity irrespective of race, religion or color.

The officers installed were: M. Karp, president; J. Goldsmith, vice president; H. Goldman, secretary; Eli Singer, treasurer; Sam Hurwitz, assistant monitor; I. Teuberman, and Ivie Stein, guardian. The monitor's office, which is honorary, was given to Stanley Reinhaus. Trustees are S. Roth, M. Davis of Santa Ana, and L. Silverman of Fullerton.

A special premium total of $200 cash has been appropriated to be awarded to the communities and farm centers of the county, for agricultural and horticultural exhibits. The first premium will be $100; second, $50; third, $25; fourth, $15; and fifth, $10.

In addition to these prizes, $15 each will be given to each community or center exhibiting, toward transportation expenses.

Must Give Notice Communities or farm centers which plan to enter exhibits are asked to notify the secretary before September 15, that space may be reserved.

Several premiums, totalling $50, are to be offered for farm products grown by one person on one ranch. The first prize will be $25; second, $15; third, $10. The same score is effective in this contest as in the community displays.

In making the divisions, for classification in display, each variety of product was listed and numbered separately under designated section and classes.

Section 1A is allotted to grains. The varieties of wheat occupy numbers 1 and 2; barley, 3 to 6; oats, 7 and 8; corn, 9 to 13; and seeds 14 to 17.

Section 2A is given over to beans, numbers 18 to 23 inclusive being filled with the different varieties.

Premium No. 29 is offered to the exhibitor presenting the largest sugar beet; No. 30 to the best display of sugar beets; No. 31 to No. 32, for the largest stock beet and the best display, respectively.

Section 4A is to be devoted to forage plants, No. 33 to 39 being given to hay. Saccharine sorghums are classified separately, as are varieties of ensilage.

JULY BUILDING MARK CLIMBS TO $174,770

Permits for two residences, at a total of $15,100, today brought the July building figure for the city to $174,770, the records of City Building Inspector W. S. Decker showed.

N. C. Morrison, 1218 West Fourth street, plans to erect a $10,000 bungalow court apartment house on the land now occupied by his garage and machine shop, 604 West Fifth street.

Mrs. Lillie Hamilton of North Ross street received a permit to build a garage and residence at an estimated cost of $5,100, at 816 North Ross street.

The building total since January 1 was $2,030,960.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harris, of Los Angeles, were overnight guests at St. Ann's en route to their home by motor from San Diego. They entertained at breakfast this morning their friend, Mrs. C. Dudley Dean, formerly of San Francisco, who came to Santa Ana recently to reside. Harris is the New York representative in Southern California of the Kelly-Springfield Tire company.

Mrs. Robert L. Brown and her three lovely little boys are enjoying a season at Balboa, where they are domiciled in a cottage. Mr. Brown is commuting by motor from this city, spending the nights and week-ends with his family.

Among out-of-town guests at the Jones-Grant wedding were Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Obarr and small daughter, Shelley Ann, of Lindsay, who were guests in the home of Mrs. Obarr's mother, Mrs. A. A. Jones, 1401 Bush street. Mr. and Mrs. Obarr will return in the near future to their Lindsay home.

Miss Jessie Curren of San Fernando, who was also here for the Jones-Grant wedding last night at the Spurgeon Memorial church, returned today to her home.

Mrs. Jess Clark and Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Means of Huntington Beach, are spending several weeks at the Yosemite and in the northern part of the state. The ranch home is left in the care of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Henderson, who with their daughter, Miss Bessie Henderson, came down from Stockton to stay while the party tours the state. Mrs. Henderson and Mrs. Clark are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Smith and their three sons, Allen, Raymond and Carleton, are once more at their North Broadway home, after a season at Laguna, where they had a pleasant cottage.

Your "Minute Men" for Concrete Work

You may be thinking of building a bird bath or an office building, a home or a silo, and you may be wondering whether Concrete is the material to use. No need to wonder long. By return mail from our nearest office, you can get the facts about that special use of Concrete in a free everyday-language booklet on the subject.

Booklets of this sort have been prepared by the Portland Cement Association on all the common uses of Concrete. They give not only counsel on the conditions under which each use is advisable, but specific instructions for carrying out the work.

And if any question is left unanswered in your mind after reading the booklet on the subject that interests you, one of our specialists in that particular class of Concrete work, will gladly answer it.

The information in the booklets is based partly on the findings of our research laboratory and partly on the field experiences and investigations of our engineers. It is accepted as a basis of practice by well-informed engineers, architects and builders throughout the world.

The publication of these booklets, and their circulation without charge, is one of the numerous activities carried on by the Portland Cement Association for the service of users of Concrete.

The Association is the joint research and educational foundation of 85 independent manufacturers of cement in the United States, Canada, Mexico and Cuba.

Suggestions as to how our work may be made more useful to you are invited.

SO. CAL. REPUBLICANS CAUSED ME TO ENTER RACE SAYS MOORE

Santa Ana and other Orange county voters were today turning over in their minds some of the more salient points brought out by Charles C. Moore, candidate for the United States Senate, in an address delivered at the Temple theater here last night.

According to Moore, who was introduced by C. C. Chapman of Fullerton, Southern California Republicans were largely responsible for his determination to enter the senatorial race in opposition to Hiram W. Johnson.

"In the San Francisco district," Moore said, "men kept asking, 'Who are we going to put up against Senator Johnson?' Well, I think we had about decided to name no one, until your Southern California Republicans swooped down on us."

"We told them it was too late, but your Los Angeles men and your other Southern California Republicans would not stand for that. They said they wanted a Northern California man, and they demanded that I make the race against the senior Senator from California. They would not take 'no' for an answer."

Backs G. O. P. Policies
"I feel, therefore, that I am your candidate, and I shall feel a special interest in Southern California, because of your representatives who came to me and induced me to make the race. It is my belief that I will subscribe to the policies of the Republican party. When I feel that I cannot subscribe to those policies I will resign."

The San Franciscan, in discussing Senator Johnson, admitted that the Senator, with "excellent advisors, had made an admirable chief executive of the state of California. But," he added, "What a pity it was that these advisors could not have gone with him to Washington."

Continuing, Moore said he "felt ashamed of the associations of the senior senator from California. He has associated too much with the radical elements," Moore declared, in touching upon the support he asserted William Randolph Hearst had given Senator Johnson.

"No Personal Contest"
"In this campaign," said Moore, "I shall try to conduct myself so that Senator Johnson cannot possibly take offense. This is no personal contest between the Senator and myself. I shall refuse to indulge in personalities."

"I helped elect Johnson governor of California in 1910," he asserted, "and I contributed to his campaign fund. I was against that iniquitous machine which he helped to crush. But I have not always agreed with him. I wrote the name of those Taft electors on the ballot, the electors that Governor Johnson disfranchised."

Discussing Senator Johnson's activities in the East, Moore said it was unfortunate that the senator had seen fit to accept private employment.

"I do not like to see Senator Johnson take private employment," Moore asserted. "It is true that William Randolph Hearst pays well for service, but it is also true that Hearst expects service, when he pays for it. I think it was unfortunate that the senior senator from California took this employment, and I think it is singular that since that time the Hearst and Johnson minds have run in parallel."

Tells Plans
With reference to his plans, in the event he is elected, Moore said he would endeavor to represent the people to the best of his ability.

"If you send me to Washington," said Moore, "you will do so with the understanding that I am not going to talk for hours to empty benches, chiefly for the benefit of the Congressional Record. I am a plain man, just a business man, and if elected, I promise to serve you where I think I can do you the most good. That will be in the committee rooms, where G. Harold Powell served you so very acceptably."

"Why am I in this race? Why should a business man drop everything and agree to run for the senate? Is it personal ambition? I think not. Is it a desire to punish? No. To reward friends? I do not think that is the way to reward friends."

"No! It is because I think I am serving California, the state I love, that I have agreed to enter this race. It is my belief that we are facing a critical period, and I am convinced that our country must have responsible party government. World conditions are chaotic. Among my other interests, I am in the livestock and grain business. I have not made a dollar in that business in three years. Nor do I expect to make a dollar until world trade conditions have been stabilized."

Touche on Treaty
"Touching upon Senator Johnson's stand in connection with the four-power treaty, Moore said, 'I am willing to forgive the past, but I will not trust him in the future. In this critical period, when the administration needed support, President Harding has had to carry our representative as a dead weight. There is not one line of American trade that is not languishing, because of the unsettled conditions of the world. To be successful, we must buy from the foreign nations, we must sell to them. Under existing conditions, what show have we against Germany?'"

Moore who shook hands with a number of his admirers upon completion of his address, said, "I'm mighty glad to be in this race. I'm having a lot of fun, and I'm going out to win. But," he added by way of warning, "don't forget to register."

Speakers who preceded Moore included Attorney J. B. Nichols, Santa Ana; Frank G. Tyrrell and Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, Los Angeles, and C. C. Chapman of Fullerton. These speakers pilloried Senator Johnson, lauded Moore and predicted the success of the San Franciscan in the August primaries. Ellis Rhodes led the audience in singing "America."

ARIZONA GUARD CAN'T ATTEND RIFLE MATCH

PHOENIX, July 19.—For lack of a national appropriation for defrayment of the necessary expenses, Arizona's National Guard will not be represented this year at the national rifle match at Camp Perry, Ohio, in September. The guard units now are preparing for fall camps of infantry and artillery instruction, to be held at El Paso. Work has been started on two new armories, at Phoenix and Mesa. The former also will serve as the state arsenal. Plans for a large structure that also would house the patriotic societies and that would furnish a hall for public gatherings were defeated by a Supreme Court judgment that the city of Phoenix had no power to donate funds for state purposes.

CUPID LOAFS ON JOB
STATE FIGURES SHOW

SACRAMENTO, July 19.—When it comes to the matrimonial business, California is showing signs of slipping, notwithstanding the steady gain, being made in population. Even June, proud month of marriages, has suffered a setback this year, as shown by figures compiled by L. E. Ross, head of the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Board of Health.

The records show that there were only 5484 marriages in California last month, as compared to 5657 marriages in June, 1921, and 5413 for the same month in 1920. "Economic conditions must be responsible," declared Ross.

Mono county is the only one of the fifty-eight counties of the state which failed to show a single marriage in June, 1922.

Los Angeles county was first with 1608 marriages recorded and San Francisco second with 751.

ANNOUNCE ORCHESTRA CONCERT PROGRAM TO BE GIVEN TOMORROW

Maurice Phillips, popular baritone singer, will be the soloist at the weekly program to be rendered by Langley's orchestra at Birch park at 7:45 tonight, according to announcement made today.

Phillips will sing two numbers, accompanied by the twenty-five piece orchestra. The "Holy City," by Stephen Adams, and "Love's Sorrow," by Shelley, are scheduled on the program.

The orchestral portion of the program will be opened with a march, "Invercargill," by Lithgow. This number will be followed with an overture, "Trumpeters of the Fort," Gruenwald. Providing variety, will be the waltz, "Arrival of the Robins," by Allen.

The fourth number of the program will be the two solos by the vocalist, after which Suppe's "Poet and Peasant" overture will be rendered.

A Spanish habanera, "Mexican Kisses," by Roberts, will follow the overture, while a patriotic patrol, "The Spirit of America," by Zanenik, will be the final selection.

C. C. Langley is director of the orchestra. The work of the organization at last week's concert met with complete favor.

CLAIM ORE FOUND IN ISLE VOLCANO

HILO, ISLAND OF HAWAII, T. H., July 19.—Drillings into the volcano of Kilauea on this island, in the hope of discovering some means of harnessing the steam and heat of the natural phenomenon and utilizing the resultant power in industry, have brought to light the apparent existence of iron and copper in the mountainous crater, according to scientists directing the drilling.

The material through which the drills are sinking consists of a silicious ore containing iron sulphides and pyrites which indicate the presence of copper.

The drilling, which was interrupted by the recent activity in craters 11 miles from Halemauau, the active pit of Kilauea, has been conducted under difficulties due to the excessive heat of the region and the fact that live steam rises in clouds and condenses around the boring rig.

The steam, however, is only surface steam or water vapor caused by seepage of rain from the ground surface, and the drills are not yet down to the depth where it may be determined whether there is sufficient steam at a high enough temperature to furnish steam that may in turn, be used commercially.

The heat at the present depth of the drilling appears to be fairly constant at a temperature of 96.3 degrees centigrade or approximately 204 degrees fahrenheit.

The question confronting the scientists is whether this heat will increase as the drills bite their way through the lava rock, which has proved difficult of penetration at some points where only three or four feet resulted from entire operations of a day.

The first hole attempted was driven approximately 20 feet when it was found that the rock beneath was tilted at such an angle that the drill was directed on a slant which would have made extrusion of the tools impossible. This hole was capped and another started with the same result, but more favorable conditions were found in several other locations and it is hoped that eventually the drills may dig their way down at least one hundred feet. The drilling experiment is of tremendous interest to scientists and geologists who hope that it may solve the question of what is underneath a volcano.

GAS TANK BLAST
FATAL TO WOMAN

CHICAGO, July 19.—Planned under the wreckage of a blazing automobile, which collided with a truck, the gas tank exploding, Mrs. Mary Wichivski, 47 years old, was burned to death. Her husband, Herman, 59, and Mrs. Mary Mueller, 42, were probably fatally burned.

Earlier in the day Mr. and Mrs. B. Salens and their two young children were burned, the parents probably fatally, when the gasoline tank of their automobile caught fire at a filling station.

Cecil Brunner Roses Used As Charming Background for Church Wedding

Surrounded by loving friends and at the altar of the Spurgeon Memorial church into which she had grown to a lovely womanhood, Miss Mary Addie Jones last night took the solemn vows which made her the wife of William T. Grant of Redlands.

In honor of the event, loving hands of friends had converted the pretty church into a bower of greenery, and against the background of palms and feathery asparagus fern with which the chancel was banked, white enameled baskets filled with Cecil Brunner roses gave an exquisite color note to the decorations. The organ loft, too, was bowered with green and baskets of roses and with Miss Hester Covington at the organ, a song recital was given just before the ceremony by James Nuckolls, who sang "Song of the Heart" by Louise Tullison, followed by De Koven's "Oh Promise Me."

As the strains of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin began, the wedding party entered the auditorium. Leading the way was Miss Vena Jones, whose bride's maid's frock of ruffled organza was the exact shade of the Cecil Brunner roses she carried. A lovely ribboned picture hat of the same delicate tint completed her harmonious costume. Following her came demure little Shelley Ann Obar, niece of the bride, whose blonde curls and childish charm received a lovely setting in quaint little ruffled frock of organza, the same shade as that of the honor maid's. Shelley Ann carried an enameled basket topped with pink maline bow, from which she scattered rose petals in the path of the bride who followed her, leaning on the arm of her brother, George Jones.

Miss Jones made a lovely bride in her gown of soft white Canton crepe with trimmings of tiny ruffles of the same material. Her veil was arranged in a beautiful effect with a coronet of orange blossoms encircling her hair. The folds of the veil swept to the floor and she carried a bride's roses arranged in formal effect with maidenhair fern and tied with long loops of ribbon.

As the bride neared the altar she was met by Mr. Grant, who with his best man, Hezen Pray of Redlands, had come down another aisle of the church.

The Rev. William J. Richards, entering from the vestry, met the young people at the altar and using the impressive ceremony of the Methodist church, solemnly united them in matrimony.

As Miss Covington at the organ played Mendelssohn's wedding march as a recessional, the party left the church to be whisked to the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. A. A. Jones, 1401 North Bush street, where relatives and a very few close friends gathered to greet them.

The decorations of the home were of Cecil Brunner roses and greenery and a dainty refreshment menu was served by girl friends of the bride, Miss Jessie Curren, of San Fernando, Miss Eleanor Widney and Miss Esther Gowdy.

Soon Mr. and Mrs. Grant departed on their honeymoon, Mrs. Grant wearing a smart little and colored Canton crepe frock with darker cape and other accessories to match, her hat being a becoming sand felt with quill trimming. Her final act ere leaving was to toss her wedding bouquet, her sister, Miss Eunice Jones, being the fortunate one to catch the flowers which unerringly pointed out the next bride.

The young people will spend their honeymoon at Big Bear, where Mr. Grant has a cabin, and after September 1 they will be at home to their friends at Redlands, where the groom is a prosperous young orange grower.

Informal Dinner Followed By Evening at Bridge Offers Enjoyment.

While Santa Ana hostesses do not concern themselves with elaborate entertaining during the summer season, many small and delightful affairs occupy their leisure time, and one of these was the informal dinner with which Mr. and Mrs. George S. Briggs gathered together a few of their friends last night at their always hospitable home, 644 North Broadway.

Mrs. Briggs used snapdragons as her table flower, and longstemmed beauties in a variety of colors, filled the cut crystal bowl which centered the table. Dainty floral placards harmonizing with the snapdragons, indicated to the guests where they were to be seated.

At the conclusion of the delicious course dinner, the evening was devoted to bridge and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Collier were fortune's favorites, winning the first prize while consolation was bestowed upon Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wheatley.

Enjoying the delightful evening with Mr. and Mrs. Briggs were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Tibbels, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Collier, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wheatley, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Timmons and Mr. and Mrs. John Jacobs Jr.

Returning Motorists Tell of Trip

"How there can be any people left in California cities is the question in my mind after having seen the immense number of camping parties all over the state," today declared Mrs. H. E. Smith, of 919 East Washington street, just returned from a sixteen-day outing to Lake Tahoe and other points of interest.

Mrs. Smith, with her two daughters, Mrs. Edna Carlson and Mrs. C. F. Allen and her son-in-law, C. F. Allen, all of Los Angeles, camped for six glorious days on the shores of Lake Tahoe and on their way to that spot stopped for a weekend visit with R. L. Howland of Fresno, a good friend of Mrs. Smith's.

The trip was made in the Smith 7-passenger car and was quite without unpleasant incident. Twenty-three counties were touched upon and a distance of 1400 miles covered. Going by way of Truckee and returning by Placerville, the California side of the lake was circled. Upon their return, the motorists stopped at Oakland, Monterey and Pismo Beach, famous for its climate. Mrs. Smith declared the scenery to be superior in her estimation to that of the road into the Yosemite, where she spent her vacation last summer.

East Bound Travelers Honored by Merry Party at Lovely Williams Home

Offering a charming compliment to Mrs. Maude Lash who will soon take her departure for an eastern visit, Mrs. W. B. Williams last night entertained a group of friends at her charming North Main street home.

Quantities of flowers were used in decking the home, iris and golden canna predominating in the living room, pink roses in the dressing room where the guests removed their wraps and pastel tinted hydrangeas in the dining room.

While the guests took their needful refreshment, very little time was spent in sewing, as Mrs. Williams had arranged a lively program of games and contests beginning with a guessing game as to what was proper to wear on given occasions. Miss Etta Conkle proved to be the most expert in knowledge of matters sartorial and received a potted begonia in full bloom.

Enjoying the honor guest, with her small son and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson of Broadway, will leave in the near future for Osceola, Iowa, their former home, where they will spend several months visiting relatives and friends.

At the farewell party honoring the travelers, were the hostess, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Lash, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Edward J. Hummel, Mrs. Elmer Thompson, Mrs. Charles Mitchell, Mrs. Frank McClellan, Mrs. A. V. Naylor, Miss Carrie Seaton, Mrs. Ella Conkle, Mrs. J. R. Mayer, Mrs. L. Crasher, Mrs. P. Kingrey, Mrs. James O'Brien, Mrs. Merle Morris and Mrs. C. E. Phillips.

SAN JOSE PREPARES TO HOUSE DELEGATES

SAN JOSE, July 19.—Whether a "tent city" will be necessary here in September to accommodate the 15,000 persons expected for the state convention of the American Legion and the State Admission day celebration of the Native Sons of the Golden West is the problem confronting local housing committees of both organizations.

For three days, beginning September 5, San Jose will be host to at least 5000 American Legion delegates from all parts of the state. The next three days, September 8, 9 and 10, at least 10,000 are expected for the state celebration of the Native Sons.

The Chamber of Commerce is now sending cards to more than a thousand residents of the city, asking if rooms can be made available for the delegates for whom accommodations cannot be procured at hotels.

BIG FISH CATCHES REPORTED AT TAHOE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—Some big catches of fish, especially the large Mackinaw trout, are reported almost daily from Lake Tahoe. One of the largest prizes of the season was taken recently when a guide pulled an immense Mackinaw trout from a depth of 125 feet in Lake Tahoe. He used a Tahoe spoon and an Eel river spinner.

Younger Set Surprised By News of Secret June Wedding

Offering one of the surprises of the summer to members of the younger set, was the announcement made today of the marriage of Miss Eleanor Duncan, daughter of Mrs. T. O. Walker, of Orange, and Clement W. Hoyt, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hoyt of Durant street, this city.

The marriage of the young couple was an event of June 19 when they motored to Riverside and were married in the manse of the Riverside First Presbyterian church. That they were successful in their efforts to keep the wedding from becoming known, is still a matter for wonder to their interested friends.

Miss Duncan spent part of her school years at Santa Ana High School, later finishing at St. Mary's Academy of Los Angeles and taking kindergarten training at Broad Oaks, Pasadena. Mr. Hoyt is a graduate of Wentworth Military Academy of Lexington, Mo., and with his parents has made Santa Ana his home for the past few years. He is connected with the Home Supply company.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt are at present at the home of Mr. Hoyt's parents and plan soon to make their own home in this city where they will be warmly welcomed by a host of friends.

Birthday Is Celebrated With Surprise Party

A happy birthday surprise honoring Mrs. J. E. Ryan, 1041 West Sixth street, was arranged Monday evening by friends and neighbors of the honoree. Taking Mr. Ryan into their confidence, they planned an invasion of the Ryan home while its occupants were taking an evening drive over the city.

Upon the return of Mr. and Mrs. Ryan and their family, the members of the party were all assembled ready to offer their birthday wishes and congratulations. Roses were used in profusion as decorations and a happy evening of games and music followed with delicious refreshments served at a late hour.

The table in the dining-room was centered with a candle decked pink and white birthday cake which was cut and served as a part of the refreshment menu.

Those enjoying the happy evening were Mr. and Mrs. Ryan and their family of five little folks, Ernest and Don and the Misses Genevieve, Berdelle and Milly, the baby, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ryan, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Hutchinson, Mrs. Fred Mieson of Seal Beach, Mrs. Byner, Mrs. Harry Hicks, Mrs. Dora Watts, the Misses Ella and Ruth Pleis, and Velma and Opal Brownlow and William Pleis.

AERIAL SLEEPING CARS DESIGNED IN ENGLAND

LONDON, July 19.—"Fly-by-night" will be more than a slang phrase if Major General Sir W. S. Brancker, civil aviator director for Great Britain, has his way. General Brancker is backing proposals for night flying routes between Paris and London. It is proposed to erect huge beacon lights on the ground along the route to enable the aviators to find their way from Paris to London.

"Kem Kid Kamp" Was Name Alliteratively Given Forest Home Camp

School-day friendships were renewed by the Junior College chemistry class, whose members recently spent a happy week at Forest Home. They returned yesterday reporting a glorious week of hiking, resting and the enjoyment of mountain scenery.

Those reveling in the week at "Kem Kid Kamp" were the Misses Helen Mater, Bernice Hayward, Etta Conkle and Messrs. Carl Hagge, Binkley Beasley, Chas. Miller and Donald Waters. These were joined over the week-end by Alice Marshall, Mildred Smith and Al Everett Thatcher.

Despite cloudless skies, the private almanac of Miss Margaret Stump, prophesies showers, for many pleasant affairs of a showery nature figure in the pre-nuptial days of the bride-to-be, whose engagement to Jack Colvin was recently announced by her mother, Mrs. Jessie Stump.

A pleasant affair of recent date was a handkerchief and apron shower at which Miss Helen Phillips entertained at her South Garvey street home. Wild hollyhocks made a charming decoration, and a happy afternoon was spent by the guests in inditing a life history of the honoree and her fiancé. The clever little booklets thus resulting were bestowed on Miss Stump, but more was to follow, as was betokened by the entry of little Jean Phillips, the adorable small niece of the hostess.

Jean carried a gay umbrella decorated with a tiny watering pot dripping with showers of rainbow colored ribbons. Upon her arm was a basket heaped high with the pretty gifts of the assembled guests.

Delectable refreshments served after the gifts had been duly examined and admired, completed a happy afternoon for the hostess, Miss Phillips, the honor guest, Miss Stump, Mrs. Jessie Stump, Mrs. Bertha Colvin, Mrs. Lena Hewins, Mrs. C. H. Phillips, Mrs. William White of Fullerton, Mrs. William Sadler of San Pedro, the Misses Elizabeth Phillips, Gertrude Montgomery, Louise Montgomery, Mildred Taylor, Laura Taylor, Joan Battersby, Elsie May, Arlie Cravath, Fannie Carver, Harriet Wollaston, Carolyn Haughton, Marjorie Ellis, Flora Pyle, Hazel Harding, Blanche Miller and Margaret Miller.

PICKFORD PREPARES TO WED SHOW GIRL

(United Press Leased Wire)
LOS ANGELES, July 19.—Jack Pickford and Marilyn Miller will be married about August 1, Pickford said today, refusing to comment on statements accredited to Flo Zeigfeld, his fiancée's manager, disparaging the match.

PIMPLES OVER FACE AND SCALP Itched and Burned. Lost Rest. Cuticura Heals.

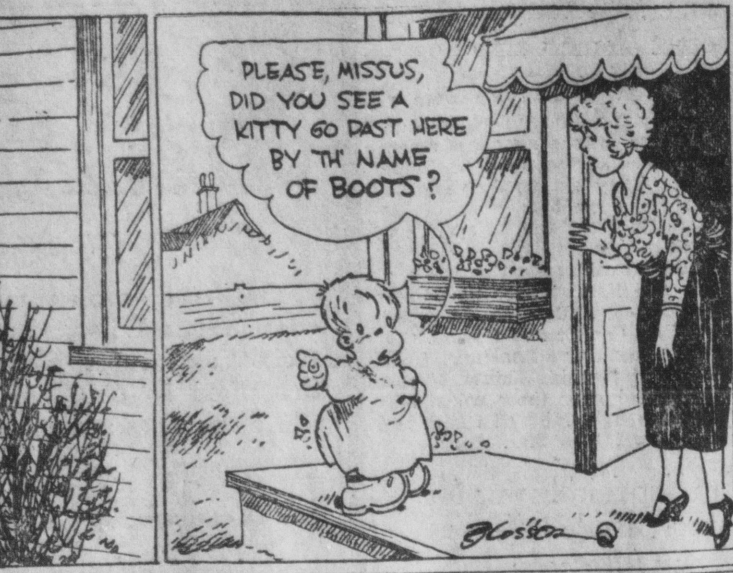

"For about a year I was troubled with large, red pimples that were scattered over my face and scalp. They itched and burned, and my face was so badly disfigured that I was ashamed to go in company. My hair became very dry, and I lost half of it. At night I lost my rest on account of the irritation. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I purchased more, and after using three cakes of Soap and two boxes of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Mary Duche, 435 E. 83rd St., Los Angeles, Calif.

JOE LYNCH NOW ON KILBANE'S TRAIL

Bantamweight Champion Has Hanking for Featherweight Crown

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Leased Wire)
NEW YORK, July 19.—Double-barreled champions being somewhat of a vogue, Joe Lynch would like to step out now and get himself two titles.
The new bantamweight champion is looking with fond eyes at the crown of Johnny Kilbane which has been regarded as in a mood to slip off for several years.
"Kilbane says he wants to defend his title at 122 pounds, the same weight at which he won. Joe'll take him on anytime he wants to go," Eddie Mead, the heavyweight manager of the bantam king, said today.
"Right," echoed the king.

Here Are Heroes of Yesterday's Games

YESTERDAY'S HERO.—Grimes hit a homer, a double and two singles in four times up, helping the Cubs beat the Phillies 6 to 3.

Boog Meusel hit four singles in four times up, knocked in five runs and scored one whit; the Yanks were mauling the White Sox 14 to 4.

Jonnard collapsed in the eighth inning when the Cards scored three runs that beat the Giants 9 to 8.

Veatch hit a homer with the bases full and tied the score in the seventh inning, but Burns singled in the last half of the seventh and drove in the run that gave the Red Sox a 6 to 5 win over the Tigers.

Speaker and Wood each hit homers with one on and the Indians took their ninth straight game, beating the Athletics 6 to 3.

Nicholson hit two homers and Boeckel hit one but the Reds scored six runs in the sixth inning and beat the Braves 9 to 3.

Sutcliff means serious—309 N. Sycamore.

DENY GRUDGE CAUSED BRITISH WITHDRAWAL

LONDON, July 19.—Officials of the British Lawn Tennis association denied that the British Davis cup team was "scratched" because of political feeling against America and maintained that shortage of funds was responsible.

When Toporcer joined the Cardinals in the spring of 1921 he was hailed as a curiosity. No one for a minute figured it would be possible to solve big league pitching with a pair of eyes that needed heavy glasses to right the vision.

The idea that a player could perform in the infield handicapped by bad eyes and wearing glasses, was also ridiculed.

In the spring of last year, when Milton Stock was late in reporting, Toporcer filled in most acceptably at second.

It would be impossible to compute what a great aid Toporcer proved to be for the Cardinals in the spring of the present campaign.

Illness on the spring training trip left Johnny Lavan, the Cardinals' shortstop, out of the running. Rickey must have a shortstop at once. Once again the pinch role was handed to Toporcer.

How Toporcer performed while Lavan was out was a matter of history. His batting was the sensation of the first two months of play. In the first thirty-six games he hit better than 400.

On May 15 and 16 of this year he achieved the unique distinction of having rapped out two triples and two home runs in four successive trips to the plate.

Toporcer is a left-handed hitter, and has been unusually successful against southpaw pitching.

How does Toporcer feel facing the speedy shots of the leading National League pitchers? Here is his own answer:

"It requires no more nerve to face big league pitching with glasses than without them. If a player wearing glasses is hit in the region of the eye he surely is in for some trouble. However, let a pitcher hit a batter without glasses in the region of the eye and you can draw your own conclusions. It's about an equal chance either way."

Toporcer has worn glasses since he was 11 years old. He is now 23. The spectacles are for near-sightedness.

GOLF CLAIMS MANY VICTIMS IN SENATE

Law Makers Keen for Exercise; Baseball Tennis, Fishing Popular

BY KENNETH W. CLARK
WASHINGTON, July 19.—"Sportively speaking," the senate of these United States knows no political lines.

While acrimonious charges, counter-charges and threats fly furiously across the chamber during discussions of partisan measures, the senate "on the field" is all harmony and brotherly love.

Take, for instance, "Joe" Robinson of Arkansas. On the floor, "Joe" packs, as sport writers might say, "a mean verbal uppercut, and a slashing oratorical right."

On the golf course, he's totally different. In fact, he's enjoyed an early morning game with "Charley" Townsend, Republican, Michigan, whom, at times, he opposes bitterly on the floor.

Golf is the game which makes all senators equal—and what's more—kindly and generous to political foes. But only on the links.

Mary Favor Golf.
The senate, athletically, is "predominantly golf," though baseball, tennis, fishing and swimming claim a number of senatorial adherents.

Every morning, while Capitol Hill is bathed in scarlet streamers of a rising sun, McKinley, Illinois; Jones, Washington; Capper, Kansas; Kellogg, Minnesota, and Hitchcock, Nebraska, are "teeing off" at one of the numerous Washington links. McKinley and Jones invariably start at six o'clock on the public course in Potomac Park. Others prefer the courses at the country clubs.

They will tell you—these senators who play every morning—that they aren't trying to make scores—"just playing a 'dub' game, to get in trim for senate sessions."

Nevertheless, a few shoot in the 80s, and in the recent play with newspapermen, the senatorial team won every match, the scribes not even finishing in the scoring columns.

Wills Baseball Fan.
Then, there is Wills, of Ohio, the "Babe Ruth" of Capitol Hill. Any morning you can see him slugging out hits at the expense of some little page hurler, or covering the keystone sack with the expertness of an Eddie Collins the pages tell you. Frelinghuysen also is a baseball addict, and has equipped senate pages with a complete baseball outfit.

At seven o'clock, Senator Pepper, of Pennsylvania, is playing tennis on the White House courts. He is the senate devotee of the game.

Senator Norris, Nebraska, is the aquatic star of the upper chamber. Practically every afternoon he practices in the small swimming pool in the senate office building.

There is nothing which Senator McCumber, North Dakota, likes quite so well as a quiet week-end fishing trip, away from the worries of the tariff and the soldier bonus. Sometimes, on these trips, he is accompanied by Senator Newberry, Michigan, also an ardent angler.

Morning, horseback riding and walking claim a good number. It used to be Senator Lodge's boast that he never missed, rain or shine, walking from his home to the Capitol. Borah, Idaho, is an enthusiastic horseman.

Whenever there is a dull afternoon in the senate, Harrison, Mississippi, and Spencer, Missouri, who staged many a merry word-battle when the Nat Goodstein case was under discussion, slip away to the ball park to watch Walter Johnson and the Washington team. Harrison seldom misses a home game.

MARY K. BROWN NOT AFTER TENNIS CROWN

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—Mary K. Brown, former national woman's tennis champion, will not enter the coming championships at Forest Hills, N. Y., August, according to word received here today from Del Monte.

Miss Brown will go East, however, to compete in other matches, and her friends still hope that she may be induced to appear in the Forest Hills event.

Mrs. May Sutton Bundy and Mrs. William Henry will leave for the East tomorrow to play in the New York state championships.

THE CALIFORNIA NATIONAL BANK

SANTA ANA, CAL.

KIN OF MAN ON TRIAL LINKED TO SLAYING

With Narciso Sienros on trial for murder and fighting for his life, the prospect that his brother, Guadalupe Severo, 43, of Anaheim, would be brought into the case as an accomplice in the slaying of Mrs. Camille Moreno and Emeterio Escobedo at Anaheim provided a new development in the case today.

While Laura Rodarte, Anaheim Mexican girl, was narrating in court the horrible spectacle that she claimed to have witnessed from her bedroom window, near which she said Sienros stabbed the Moreno woman to death, Sheriff C. E. Jackson was wiring to Calexico authorities to hold Severo, who fled to the American authorities for protection from residents on the Mexican side of the border.

Severo told Chief of Police T. J. Worthington, of Calexico, that he was implicated by his brother, Sienros, in the double slaying of July 9, according to a message received today by Jackson. "Do you want him or is he a nut?" Worthington's message asked.

Asks That Man Be Held

"Hold Severo. Am making investigation. Will advise you again," Jackson replied.

"It is quite likely that Severo was mixed up in the affair," Jackson stated today. "He was at Anaheim at the time and was even in attendance at the inquest last Tuesday. It is more than likely that Severo aided Sienros in killing Escobedo. So far there has been found no eye witness to the fight with Escobedo. We have no exact information as to what occurred."

Escobedo was found dead on his doorstep, next to the Sienros home in the Mexican colony. Mrs. Moreno was found in a nearby alley. Several witnesses have been found who claimed to have seen Sienros slay her.

Severo disappeared after the inquest and evidently proceeded to Mexico.

Suspect Surrenders

According to information received by Jackson from sources, other than the Calexico telegram, his fellow countryman made affairs so uncomfortable for him that he decided to take his chances with the American authorities. So he surrendered at Calexico.

Miss Rodarte, testifying before a jury in Superior Judge R. Y. Williams' court at the trial of Sienros today, graphically described the attack upon Mrs. Moreno by Sienros. The witness said she was awakened by the woman's screams. Running to the window, she said she saw Sienros plunge his knife again and again into the woman's body, while she made futile efforts to fend off the blows with uplifted arms.

Then, said the witness, Sienros desisted and went to his house, around the corner of an alley. In a few minutes he returned, she said, with a rifle, and from the front door he watched him shoot down the alley, supposedly at his victim.

David Rocha, another neighbor of the slain and the accused slayer, was then called to the stand by Deputy District Attorney C. N. Mozley.

Slayer Looks On

Sienros sat in court, unable to understand testimony, except that part delivered in Spanish, through court interpreter Charles C. Carrillo. He watched all moves closely but his face was immobile and expressionless. Attorney Leonard Evans, of Anaheim, counsel for the defense, made no effort to exclude any of the first witness's testimony. He cross-examined her briefly.

The jury was selected within 17 minutes after court was called to order. The following jurors were selected: A. R. Christensen, Francis B. Shepherd, C. A. Westgate, Edna E. Stephenson, Rebecca Pope, James T. Hill, Eugene Livingston, Conrad G. Lott, S. W. Orton, William F. Lutz, Harry M. Horn and Conrad J. Mauerhan.

CLEVELAND CARS TO CUT FARE AUGUST 1

CLEVELAND, O., July 19.—Cleveland will ride to work for five cents beginning August 1.

This was the announcement today by officials of the Cleveland Street Railway company following Mayor Kohler's ultimatum demanding an immediate reduction.

The present fare is six cents.

S. F. DEMOCRAT TO LOSE POST, CLAIM

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—Politicians here were gossiping today about reports that the department of labor has asked the resignation of Edward White, Democrat, as immigration commissioner here. White would not discuss the rumors.

ASKS RESIGNATION OF S. F. DEMOCRAT

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Immigration Commissioner White and San Francisco has been advised that his resignation will be acceptable, officials of the department of labor admitted today.

The request for White's resignation is for political reasons, it was explained, and is not a reflection upon the administration of his office.

NAB CALIF. BANKER IN EMBEZZLING CASE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—W. B. Ramsey, former cashier of the First National bank of Willets, Tex., charged with embezzling $19,000 of the bank's funds, according to notification sent United States Marshal Holohan here today. He will be returned for trial.

BIDDICK'S BUSINESS IN L. A. IS GROWING

Walter Biddick, formerly secretary of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club and the Orange County Automobile Trades association, is establishing himself in a big business enterprise in Los Angeles, it was disclosed today, when articles of incorporation of Walter W. Biddick, Inc., were filed with the county clerk of Los Angeles by Attorney Carl M. Heim, of this city.

Eight months ago Biddick in Los Angeles, became a distributor and jobber of automotive supplies. According to Heim, incorporation by Biddick will enable him to expand his field of merchandising, enlarge his stock and surround himself with an efficient organization.

Associated with him in the incorporation of the new company are Leland R. Crawford, formerly tire salesman with Ward Sutton, Miller tire distributor, this city, and James E. Granger, secretary-manager of the Citrus Belt Auto Trades association, of Pomona.

EDUCATION BOARD DEFERS MEETING

Because the absence of three members prevented a quorum, the meeting of the board of education, scheduled for 1:30 p. m. today, was indefinitely postponed.

C. F. Smith was out of the city. H. C. Dawes was confined to his home by injuries which he sustained several days ago, and President J. L. McBride could not be located in time for the meeting.

Bids for furniture and minor repairs to the school buildings, and equipment for the junior high school were to have been opened. No bids for the site of the old Fifth street school had been received up to 1:30 today, the time limit set for their receipt.

Superintendent J. A. Cranston had planned to make several recommendations for teachers to fill vacancies in the city schools.

An effort was being made to set a meeting time when at least three of the members could be present. The meeting will be held at the call of Secretary F. L. Andrews.

SEEKS ESTATE ELETTERS

Charles Treulieb, who died suddenly at Cypress last Saturday, left an estate valued at $1500, according to a petition for letters of administration, on file today in the superior court. Charles D. Brown, public administrator, was the petitioner. A brother and sister of the deceased, residing in Russia, are heirs to the estate.

SEEKS WILL PROBATE

Petition to probate the will of the late Henry Marple, who died at Fullerton July 9, was on file today in the superior court, the petitioner being Nancy B. Moore, of Chicago. The estate is valued at $10,000, consisting chiefly of stock in the Fullerton Oil company. The heirs are two brothers, W. W. Marple, of Chicago, and Edward Marple, resident of Florida.

SCHOOL ACCREDITED TO STATE UNIVERSITY

YUBA CITY, July 17.—The Live Oak High School in Sutter county has been accredited to the State university and enrolled on the class B list, according to information received by Principal J. B. Frazier.

This recognition is gratifying because it was only two years ago that the school was organized and for a year or more occupied temporary quarters. A new $100,000 building was occupied during the past term and the first class was graduated last month.

KIWANIS CLUB BOOSTS WATER SUPPLY MOVE

That the business methods committee of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club will recommend to the club that it centralize its effort during the next year in the carrying out of a movement to procure a better and permanent water supply for Santa Ana, was indicated today in a report made by Herbert O. Davis, chairman, and John Knox, the only members of the committee present at today's meeting of the organization at St. Ann's Inn. The committee's complete report will be made at next Wednesday's meeting.

Today's meeting was given over entirely to business matters and consideration of reports by chairmen of various committees.

Action of considerable importance to the membership was the unanimous adoption of a report by the finance committee in which recommendation was made that dues be increased from $10 to $15 a year and initiation fee from $15 to $25.

To Bar Assessments

The committee advised that the dues should be increased to make it possible for the club to become active in civic and charity projects that may come before it. In the past these activities have been financed by assessments.

R. R. Miller, county probation officer, who was in charge of a fund of $40 given some months ago for use in providing extras for children at the detention home, recounted items for which money was expended, such as ice cream, candies, cookies and fireworks for the children at the home and for assisting two young women who needed financial assistance.

Contribute $31

The purposes to which the money had been placed so impressed the Kiwanians with the necessity of such a fund that $31.50 was voluntarily contributed to the fund by members.

The club went on record as favoring the movement to have a charter submitted to the voters of the city.

It was announced that the first meeting in August would be one in which inter-city spirit would be emphasized and each member was requested to invite a Kiwanian from some club in Southern California to be present as his guest.

CONVICT TRIO FOR ALLEGED OIL FRAUD

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—Investigation of "wild cat" oil organizations will be undertaken at once by the district attorney's office, it was announced today following the conviction of W. L. Barnard, B. S. Dennison and Drew Harendunn on charges of conspiracy to defraud.

The men were charged with having revived a defunct oil company, sold about four million shares of stock, and then failing to do drilling with the half million shares which it had been announced were reserved for financing the work.

PROMISE SENSATION IN S. F. DEATH CASE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—With only circumstantial evidence brought forward thus far, the district attorney's office promised "startling revelations" to be made at today's session of the preliminary hearing of Henry Wilkens, accused of murder in connection with the killing of his wife.

"PEACOCK ALLEY"

Mae Murray Scores Triumph in Colorful Story on Princess Screen.

BY FRANCES DEANER

Mae Murray, famous as the original "Nell Brinkley girl" and former dancer in the Zeigfeld "Follies," does the most striking characterization of her career in Cleo of Paris in "Peacock Alley," the feature production now showing on the Princess theater screen.

The picture which was directed by Miss Murray's husband, Robert Z. Leonard, was scenarized by Edmund Berenger and centers about the adventures of a famous dancing beauty of Paris who marries a small-town American youth. She goes home with her husband only to find the town scandalized at the marriage. The young man's relatives and others buy out his interests in a corporation and Cleo is left, but the big city is full of troubles for them. It is in the New York sequences that Mae Murray does some of the finest acting she has given the screen, adding renewed interest to her work.

Throughout the picture is lavishly and painstakingly filmed and the star has never looked more adorable. Her costumes, the mountings, the exterior views, the prisma color titles all combined contribute to a vital, colorful production. And the cast is in keeping with the high standard set by the star. Monte Blue in the role of the young husband gives an excellent account of himself. Others in the cast who add colorful bits to the colorful story are Edmund Lowe, W. J. Ferguson, Anders Randolph, William Tooker, Howard Lang, William Frederic, M. Durant and Jeffry Lewis.

"Peacock Alley" is to be screened again tonight at the Princess and is well worth viewing.

NEW FOX PICTURE IS FINE ENTERTAINMENT.

An unusual treat is being offered to motion picture patrons at the West End theater tonight, where Maurice Flynn's new railroad picture, "Smiles Are Trumps," is being shown. Based on Frank L. Packard's exciting story, "Tempered Steel," this picture, as produced by William Fox, is as good a piece of screen entertainment as one would wish.

FAIRBANKS TWINS IN "THE BEAUTY SHOP."

A new use for the screen has been discovered by the Fairbanks twins—Marion and Madeline—who will be seen in "The Beauty Shop" with Raymond Hitchcock and an all-star cast at the Yost theater beginning tonight. The girls, according to Manager E. D. Yost, previously appeared in several motion pictures but forsook the camera for the stage on which they are celebrated as charming and vivacious dancers.

When they made their first pictures they had not yet learned to dance. In "The Beauty Shop" they were called upon to perform in several scenes. They awaited the screening of the picture with much eagerness as it was the first time they ever saw themselves dance. They immediately decided that every dancer should have a motion picture test made so that she can see exactly how she does it.

"The Beauty Shop" adapted by Doty Hobart from the musical comedy by Channing Pollock and Renold Wolf, is a remarkable seven-reel comedy. Besides Mr. Hitchcock and the Fairbanks twins, those in the cast are: Billy B. Van, James J. Corbett, Louise Fazenda, Diana Allen, Montagu Love and Laurence Wheat.

BUSTER'S THE WHOLE SHOW IN THIS ONE.

"The frozen face comedian," the title bestowed upon Buster Keaton because his visage never cracks into a smile upon the screen, can be seen at the West End theater tonight in his latest production, "The Playhouse," a first National attraction.

The comedy is declared to be the most side-splitting that Buster has ever turned out, and it contains many novelties never before seen on the screen.

JACKIE COOGAN

Gee, kids! Just imagine earning $2,500 a week! That's the amount Jackie Coogan, your little hero of the movies, gets every payday!

No wonder he calls living "Some Life!" You've met Jackie through the movies and you know all about how he acts and how he looks.

But what do you know about his life in general? How'd he happen to break into the movies? How'd he come to meet Charlie Chaplin? Has he ever been on the regular stage? Has Jackie got a girl? How does he like the movies?

Jackie is going to answer all these question in his own story of his life—
"SOME LIFE!"

It's in six chapters and the first will appear in The Register next Monday.

The other chapters will follow daily—every one full of interesting things that concern "The World's Wonder Boy," Jackie Coogan.

MORE MONEY THAN YOU NEED?

—But why waste it on nearly worthless "fertilizer"? A ton of "Good" Manure yields 10 lbs. nitrogen, 100 lbs. humus. An acre (among trees) of inoculated Melilotus (fair crop only) yields 200 lbs. of nitrates plus 6000 lbs. of humus. One costs $100 per acre, the other $3. One method is foul in every way; the other clean and sweet. * * * If you can grow "Green Manure" crops, Winter or Summer, or both, don't spend a cent for other fertilizer; even though the whole "Farm Bureau-Bunch" and all the "U. of Cal. Doctors" tell you otherwise. My 4 years work has put to shame the whole crowd of "Costly Fertilizer Propagandists" and also proven that the legume cover crop without pure culture inoculation is on the average a damaging expense. The soil is robbed not helped, trees weakened, not strengthened to resist frost, pests and disease and to hold and mature a full crop of fruit. (Continued next Wed.)

'BUNCH' SWIM AT BEACH IS BIG SUCCESS

The courthouse officials, employees and their families held the annual "courthouse bunch" swim at Huntington Beach last night. Generalissimo Slabaugh called the meeting to order in the Huntington Beach plunge early in the evening and roll call showed about 150 present.

"The championship swimming races were the big event of the party—J. A. Parker received honorable mention for being swimming champion," said Bill Jerome this morning. "Nels Edwards should have been second, but some one mistook his nose for a football and forced him to cut off about five miles in speed, making him third."

Split Booby Prize
Nat Neff and Billy Jerome split the booby prize, and Mrs. Joplin received honorable mention for swimming across the plunge without sinking. It was reported, Miss Mildred Ward was officially declared to be the women's champion and proudly carried away the salt water bubble as first prize.

It was reported that Mrs. Grace Kittle and Miss Blanche Hill arrived in the latest creations of fashion, in the line of bathing suits, but that they were too late to be seen by many, much to the disappointment of Ted Tetzlaff. After all the silver cups had been awarded the party reconvened on Tom Talbert's lawn.

Serve Dainty Repast
Onions, coffee, chili beans, hot dogs and buns, in fact plenty to eat, was provided by the Talberts. While the dainty repast was being served beautiful musical numbers were rendered.

The courthouse quartette, Bill Jerome, Charlie Brown, Nat Neff and Rusty Miller, sang a popular number entitled, "A Little Prairie Flower."

"Anyway," said E. R. ("Oll") Abbey, "it was something about being wild." This quartette was made up of the musical talent of the Rotary and the Kiwanis clubs. The only Lion present sat on the sidelines and growled.

Tom Talbert rendered a touching solo entitled, "Oll By Myself, I Get Lonesome," accompanying himself on the guitar and mouth organ.

Shows 'Em Up
Following these numbers Mrs. P. W. Slabaugh showed them all up with several solos, which were very much enjoyed by everyone. Oll Abbey ate before he came, it was discovered. When questioned, he said he always goes prepared.

After the supper the party broke up with a vote of thanks for the host and hostess and many enjoyed the dance at the pavilion.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS REPORTED TO POLICE

None was injured in two local traffic accidents, reports of which were on file today at police headquarters. One was a collision between cars driven by Albert S. Cordero, of Huntington Beach, and J. F. Weber, of Garden Grove, at Fourth and Spurgeon streets. The other was that of a collision between an automobile driven by J. C. Nava and a truck belonging to the Walter Hooe Commission company, at First and Main streets. Both collisions occurred late yesterday.

RE-OPENING OF WOOLEN MILLS IS PROPOSED

That there is possibility of re-opening the Mission Woolen mills, at the corner of Washington avenue and Santiago street, with practical and experienced woolen mill men directing operations, became known today when Walter Slade, of New York, and John Willingmyre, of Philadelphia, presented to a joint meeting of the directors of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association and the Chamber of Commerce plans for resuming operations at the plant.

Endorsement of the program for reopening was asked of the two associations. Definite action was postponed pending determination by the two men on a point involving the method of selling the product of the plant. The men propose selling direct to the consumer. It was the opinion of the members of the two boards that such a marketing plan would cause failure of the enterprise. Recommendation was made that this feature be reconsidered. Slade and Willingmyre will announce their decision later.

The two men have obtained control of the local plant and propose the organization of a $350,000 company, with the owners of the plant taking stock to the amount of $100,000, the estimated value of the property. It is proposed to sell stock locally to the amount of the rest of the capitalization. A charter for organization under the name of the California Woolen Mills, incorporated, has already been obtained, the men said.

Slade said it was proposed to renovate the plant and equip it for the manufacture of high grade goods. He expressed the belief that the mill could be made a good money maker for stockholders, and a big asset for Santa Ana. He predicted expansion in time that would give employment to 200 workers.

Slade was for many years designer for William Dickey and Son at Baltimore, and has had years of experience in designing for mills and in the operation of plants. Willingmyre for twenty years has been a wool buyer for eastern manufacturing concerns.

RECESS CALLED IN COURT OIL BATTLE

With the defense in the midst of its fight to hold a 12-acre oil lease near Huntington Beach, together with one producing well and two uncompleted wells that are on the lease, the case of the Guaranty Oil company and Charles B. Behr against A. L. Irish, the Rio Brava Oil company and others was today scheduled resumption of the trial, set for Thursday at 10 a. m.

The case not being finished after one day in court, Superior Judge R. Y. Williams late yesterday continued it to Thursday, today's calendar being occupied with trial of a murder case. Should the criminal trial extend beyond today, the oil lease battle would be further deferred.

Behr and the Guaranty Oil company had their innings in court yesterday and during the afternoon rested their case, allowing the defense to begin.

The plaintiffs seek to rescind a drilling contract made with the defendants after one agreement, made with George E. Cloud, had lapsed with Cloud's abandonment of a well he had started.

The Rio Brava company shifted Cloud's rig to another portion of the lease, in which Behr was interested but in which the Guaranty company was not. There a producing well was brought in and another well was started. A third well was eventually started on that portion of the lease occupied by the Cloud well.

Behr and the Guaranty Oil company brought suit to rescind the drilling contract and secure possession of the entire lease because, they alleged, the defendants had violated an understanding that drilling was to be continued on the abandoned Cloud well. The defendants deny such an agreement and cite the drilling contract to show that no such clause was contained therein.

WOMAN HELD IN CAL. MEDICAL LAW CASE

Mrs. M. B. Armstrong, of Santa Ana, charged with practicing a mode of healing the sick and afflicted without a license from the state board of medical examiners, was today awaiting arraignment in the superior court, having been held to answer there in a preliminary hearing late yesterday before Justice J. B. Cox.

Deputy District Attorney D. G. Wettlin represented the prosecution at the hearing, Mrs. Armstrong being defended by Attorney H. C. Head. At the conclusion of the hearing, Mrs. Armstrong was released on her own recognizance.

62 CANDIDATES SQUARE AWAY IN BIG RACE

Candidates—state, county, district and township—were ranging themselves today at the barrier for the 1922 political sweepstakes, the first heat of which will be run, starting tomorrow and ending at the primaries, August 29.

Nomination petitions, qualifying sixty-two contestants, had been filed today with County Clerk J. M. Backs. With only one more day remaining in which to file papers, the list of campaign entries was believed to be virtually complete. Nominations will close tomorrow and the field will then be off on its first lap.

Virtually all of those who had announced their candidacies had qualified today, the notable exceptions being the expected opponents of County Auditor W. C. Jerome. Neither E. B. Merritt, Anaheim city clerk, nor A. W. Wood, former constable of Anaheim township, had qualified for the auditor contest today.

Five in Sheriff Race
The office of sheriff appeared to be the most sought after, with five candidates in the race.

Among the county offices, there were six for which no contest was made, the field being left clear for re-election of the incumbents. These were the offices of County Tax Collector J. C. Lamb, Assessor James Sleeper, Recorder Justine Whitney, Surveyor W. K. Hillyard and Coroner and Public Administrator Charles D. Brown and Auditor W. C. Jerome.

Two of the three candidates for the board of supervisors, N. T. Edwards of the fourth district and Chairman T. B. Talbert of the second district, had no competition.

Registration for the August primaries closes July 29, one month before election. Voters who have not registered by that date will be unable to participate in the primary.

Following is the list of candidates, complete, as it stood today:

Here is List
Assembly, 16th district—Dr. C. D. Ball, John Mellen, E. H. McCall; assessor—James Sleeper; tax collector—J. C. Lamb; recorder—Miss Justine Whitney; surveyor—W. K. Hillyard; auditor—W. C. Jerome; clerk—J. M. Backs, Joe Smith; treasurer—J. C. Joplin, Clinton B. Innes, Ralph W. Mead; sheriff—C. E. Jackson, Sam Jernigan, Ralph J. McFadden, K. Carr, Andrew Cook, district attorney—A. P. Nelson, Arthur E. Koepsel; superintendent of schools—R. P. Mitchell, Joseph E. Abernathy.

Supervisor second district—T. B. Talbert; supervisor fourth district—N. T. Edwards; supervisor fifth district—H. A. Wassum, George Jeffrey; republican county central committee, second district—L. W. Blodgett, R. E. Larter; republican county central committee, third district—W. M. Irwin, E. C. Dutton, Albert Laumer, David Jessurun, J. R. Gallimore, J. S. Howard, Richard T. Davis; republican county central committee, fourth district—C. F. Newton, J. D. Thomas, Willard Smith; republican county central committee, fifth district—Lew H. Wallace.

Justice of the peace, Santa Ana township—John B. Cox, Darius F. Johnson; constable Santa Ana township—J. L. Elliott, A. K. Cravath, Joseph H. Ryan, W. D. Wilson.

Justice of the peace Orange township—G. W. Ingle; constable Orange township—William Rohrs, Charles J. Rozell, A. F. Langford.

Justice of the peace Anaheim township—Hannah L. Horwitz, G. B. Brown; constable Anaheim township—O. B. Baxter, Edward D. Marlon.

Justice of the peace Huntington Beach township—C. W. Warner; constable Huntington Beach township—C. S. Bergey.

Justice of the peace Fullerton township—William French; constable Fullerton township—James A. Dunn, Charles H. Young.

Justice of the peace Newport Beach township—Leo Goepfer, Byron D. Hall; constable Newport Beach township—J. A. Porter.

REITERATES BELIEF MEXICAN HIT BY CAR VICTIM OF FOUL PLAY

The belief that Sabel Saldona, 46, of La Habra, whose body was struck by a Pacific Electric car between Fullerton and La Habra, was a victim of foul play, was reiterated today by Sheriff C. E. Jackson, who declared his intention of investigating the Mexican's death from every angle. Search for several Mexicans, said to have been seen with Saldona shortly before the body was found, is being made.

"I am confident, from what I have learned concerning the incident, that Saldona was dead when the electric car struck him last Sunday," Jackson said.

The body was cold when trainmen picked it up, Jackson said. An arm that was severed by the car did not bleed, he was told by trainmen.

The authorities are deeply interested in identifying the owner of a knife found near the body. Saldona's wife has declared that the knife did not belong to her husband.

A coroner's jury at Fullerton yesterday recommended that an investigation be made. The jury was unable to establish the manner of Saldona's death.

FUMIGATOR AT TUSTIN WINS PRAISE FOR COMMUNITY

Nursery Stock Treated Here Is Freed from Scale Infestation

UTT DISCUSSES PLANT Puts County In Forefront In Move to Produce Healthy Trees

Santa Ana and Orange county ranchers and packing house executives today were evincing a lively interest in the second vacuum fumigator established in the state for the treatment of nursery stock installed on the property of the Lemon Heights Nursery company at Tustin.

The work of the installation was supervised by D. B. Mackie, field entomologist of the California department of agriculture. Treatment of incoming nursery stock will be conducted by A. A. Brock, Orange county horticultural commissioner. A similar plant has been established at Santa Paula, in Ventura county.

"Through the use of this method," said C. E. Utt of Tustin, "scale of every kind, and at any stage in its life cycle, is destroyed. This is particularly applicable to citrus stock, as well as other plants infested with destructive insects that may be shipped into the county."

Prevents Quarantine
 "The use of the vacuum fumigator will permit shipping out of the county nursery stock that otherwise would be quarantined because of red and purple scale infestation."

A small fee, less than 10 cents a tree, will render a tree absolutely free of infestation when it has been passed through this tank. A deputy of the county horticultural commissioner is always present to pass upon the trees treated. Under his supervision about 400 trees have been put through the process of fumigation.

About 150 to 200 trees at a time are "shot," as the process is called, and the length of time required for the process is one and one-half hours. By the use of a new vacuum pump, to be installed, this time will be considerably reduced.

Use Cyanic Gas
 Hydro-cyanic gas is the chemical used, the equivalent of three ounces of solid cyanide being used for each charge, but used in liquid form. This gas is admitted into the immense tank through lead pipes, after the vacuum has been formed.

The drum where the stock is placed is made of three-eighths inch boiler steel, and the shape of the tank makes it look like an enormous gun. It is five feet in diameter and eighteen feet in length.

Plan Important Field Demonstrations At Tustin and Fullerton

"The matter of soil moisture is one of the most important problems confronting fruit growers in Orange county," said H. E. Wahlberg, farm advisor, today, in announcing dates for the soil moisture and cover crop demonstrations scheduled for next week.

"The question of summer crops and frequency of irrigation will be taken up in a series of field demonstrations under the auspices of the agricultural extension service."

Tustin, Fullerton and La Habra will be the scene of these important demonstrations. The purpose of the meetings will be to arrive at a better understanding of the irrigation needs of various types of soil.

"At Tustin three test plots will be visited, showing whippoorwill cow peas, melilotus alba and huban clover. The demonstration trip will begin at S. W. Stanley's place, Glen avenue, near Sixth street, Tustin, at 9:30 a. m., July 25.

"V. R. Schoonover, citrus specialist," will assist in the demonstrations.

"All growers are invited to attend."

LIVESTOCK SURVEY WILL DRAW COUNTY BREEDERS JULY 22

Orange county livestock breeders today were looking forward with lively interest to the meeting to be held under the auspices of the Southern California Purebred Livestock association, at Hotel Clark, Los Angeles, Saturday, July 22.

Noon luncheon will be served. A survey of livestock conditions is being made by the association and a campaign will be inaugurated for a general increase in production in all counties in the southern part of the state.

Prominent speakers will continue Gordon H. True and Charles W. Campbell of Los Angeles.

EL TORO RANCH BUREAU STAND SHOWS RICHES ON MEASURE IN DEPOSITS

Ranchers and Chemists Keenly Interested In Move to Enrich Soils

Somewhere in the early 70s, when empires of California land lay useless in the sun of centuries, Louis F. Moulton, a young New Englander, seeking new worlds to conquer, bought at what would now be considered an idle song, the domain of 22,000 acres near what is now El Toro station, on the Santa Fe railroad, and devoted his energies to sheep raising.

Certain sterile-looking hills running across this principality showed white ridges, with limestone up thrusts frequent. It was only a few days ago when Fred L. Sexton, who played over the same hills when a boy, revisited them, took samples of the deposit and found, through consultation with chemists, and by assays, that there lay hundreds of thousands of tons of calcium carbonate, unrivaled for "bucking up" deteriorated and outworn soils.

Supply Unlimited
 The discovery, it is said, abounds in specimens of oyster and other marine shells and bones, most of which, when the face is opened, crumbles to dust under slight pressure. This discovery opens many avenue of speculation as to the past history of this remarkable tract, Orange county chemists assert.

According to agriculturists who have examined the deposit, it is almost free from foreign matter, and can be applied to the soil, with assurance of immediate availability, without treatment. Chemists who have examined the samples from each hillside deposit, of which there are many on the Rancho Niguel, declare that it is an inexhaustible supply of the richest possible soil-enriching material known and can be put on the land cheaply.

Ever since the enrichment of soils became a problem to the European farmer, centuries ago, the value of marl and chalk and other calcareous material has been known, and these deposits have been hauled many miles, by devilish means, to replenish worn-out land.

Hailed As Boon
 In California, old groves and interior beet lands have felt the stimulus of decomposed marine deposits to a marked degree, the measure of immediate availability to the land being so great.

Calcium, chemists claim, is to the earth what the spark is to the motor, and on that assumption they hail the present discovery, so near hundreds of thousands of the most valuable acreage outdoors, as a boon to orchardists and farmers of the Southland.

A large crushing plant is being installed, bunkers are nearly finished, and a good road is being constructed to join the highway near El Toro. Spur lines from the Santa Fe railroad will soon be built, it is said, and Orange county will soon be supplying the entire West with calcium carbonate.

Will Not Take Sides In Water and Power Initiative

"During the past few weeks the public utilities department of the Orange county farm bureau has received numerous inquiries as to the attitude of the farm bureau toward the initiative measure known as the California water and power act," said R. D. Flaherty, secretary manager.

"This measure has received serious consideration, not only by the utilities department, but by the regional and state executives as well. The farm bureau, from the local county organization, up to the state executive committee, has decided for the present neither to endorse nor condemn the water and power act."

Gives Reasons
 "This action is taken, first, because of the wide divergence of opinion and, second, because of the tremendous amount of propaganda, both for and against the act, some of which is distorted, and much of which is incomplete and by no means a full statement of the facts."

"The action on the part of the farm bureau does not, however, prevent members of the farm bureau from giving expression to their individual views, either for or against the act, but the views so expressed do not in any way indicate the attitude of the farm bureau as an organization, notwithstanding reports to the contrary."

Seeking Information
 "At present the farm bureau is seeking accurate information on the water and power act and planning to give as much publicity as possible to reliable, accurate information, when the various farm centers resume their meetings in the fall."

"Meanwhile, it is urged that every citizen study the act for himself and decide, so far as possible, whether the act would have a beneficial influence on the state as a whole, or whether it would have a detrimental effect on our progress and development. If enacted into law by the vote of the people next November."

POULTRYMEN TO ATTEND MEET AT POMONA

Santa Ana and Orange county poultrymen today were making preliminary arrangements to take an active part in the special meeting of poultrymen of Southern California, to be held at Ganesha park, Pomona, Friday, August 4. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the poultry department of the Los Angeles county farm bureau.

The purpose of the meeting is to give the board of directors of the Southern California farm bureau egg-laying contest an opportunity to present their plans for the experimental feeding work, which will be conducted at the egg-laying contest grounds.

Work Outlined
 An outline of this work has already been prepared, but it is desired to obtain the approval of poultrymen before putting it into effect. The plan as outlined includes experimental work on various milk products and different types of green feeding to determine quantity of yield, as well as "hatchability" of eggs produced by the different feeds.

As a special feature of the day's program, there will be addresses by some of the best-known poultrymen of the country who will be in Southern California at this time, following the poultry convention to be held in Oregon the latter part of this month.

Will Serve Lunch
 There will be an inspection tour of the egg-laying contest in the morning, followed by a basket lunch held at Ganesha park at noon.

The program will begin at 1 p. m. and will be over in time to allow poultrymen to get home for their evening feeding.

HERBS USED IN MEDICINES.

A Manchester, England, paper urges the renewed cultivation of old-fashioned medicinal herbs in English gardens. In the United States they have also gone out of fashion as a feature of the small garden, although they are imported in large quantities from Turkey, India and China, where they are grown purely for commercial purposes, as their medicinal value is recognized by many leading physicians. Tons of medicinal herbs are used annually in the preparation of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most successful medicine for woman's ills. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and women afflicted with such ailments should try it.—Adv

PLAN INCREASED ACTIVITY BY WOMEN OF FARM BUREAU

There was a time, in the age of the old oaken bucket and the one-hoss shay, when leisure was unknown to the women folks on the farm.

But now—Mighty organizations, like the California farm bureau federation, are taking up the question of providing a means of filling this time with healthful and pleasant occupation.

The executive committee of the American farm bureau federation, an organization which founded the memorable farm bloc, in conference at Chicago this last week, turned its attention to the women on the farms.

This body, representative of one of the largest and most influential organizations in the country, in an effort to include the fair sex in its bounds, founded the "home and community department" in the national organization.

Not only do some of the projects of the new department provide for activity to fill in leisure time which the milkmaid and her mother may enjoy, but others seek to provide further spare hours. A project labelled "conservation of time and human energy," student though its designation, is taken to mean just this.

E. E. Campbell, regional director from Orange county, has taken a position as favoring the increased activity of women in the Orange county farm bureau, and is taking active measures to raise the status of milady of the farm to a place of dignity in the many centers throughout the county.

TOLL OF PESTS PREYING UPON RICH GROVES STAGGERING, HUFF SAYS

Expert, Describing Insectary, Cites Startling Figures for Citrus Growers

LOSS SAID ENORMOUS

Outlines County Plan to Destroy Insects and Cut Losses

Citrus growers are more vitally interested in biological control measures than any other set of horticulturists or agriculturists, according to D. Eymann Huff of El Modena, one of the principal speakers at the citrus institute held at Pomona Saturday.

"The principal reason is," said Huff, in describing the county insectary established at Anaheim, "that there are so many pests that attack citrus, causing such a tremendous expenditure of funds, that the citrus grower has been forced to search for some better and more economical method of protecting his investment."

"The movement in Orange county for biological control of parasitic enemies of citrus trees had its inception less than a year ago, during a discussion between three parties, two of them representing large citrus interests in the county, when one of them offered to contribute $1,000 toward the work that it might get under way at the earliest possible date."

Method Economical.

"Then and there the wheels of progress began to turn and we now have, as a result of that conference, the Orange County Pest Control association, organized and beginning to render splendid service. We believe this method is the most economic and easiest way of handling any insect pest where a natural enemy can be found that will destroy and hold under control its host."

"The citrus growers have spent more money and accomplished more in their fight against insect pests by the biological method than any other group of horticulturists and agriculturists."

"In Orange county we have the usual number of scale pests which attack citrus trees. Properly to control these pests by artificial measures it is necessary to resort to more than annual fumigation."

Costly Enemies.

"There are about 45,000 acres of citrus in Orange county. Part of this, of course, is at present non-bearing. The average cost of fumigation is about $20 or $40 per acre. If we were to fumigate only half of this acreage annually, at a cost of $30 an acre, it would mean something like $700,000."

"In addition, there is a very con-

HUGE WELCOME TO BE GIVEN TO JOHNSON

With information available today definitely scheduling United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson's arrival in Orange county for 10 a. m., Monday, July 31, the executive committee of the Johnson-for-Senator club here began intensively to develop plans for giving the senator a full day of activity in the county.

Johnson will arrive here from San Diego by automobile at 10 a. m. and will be met by a group of local men, according to Howard Turner, secretary of the club.

The distinguished visitor and his party will be driven to Fullerton, where the senator will make an address at 11:30 a. m. Luncheon will be had at Elks' club, Anaheim, where it is expected a large number of his staunchest supporters from all parts of the county will greet him. He will deliver an address in that city at 1:30 p. m. Addresses are scheduled for Orange at 2:30 p. m. and at Huntington Beach at 4:30 p. m. The places for the addresses are yet to be designated.

Returning from Huntington Beach at 6 p. m., the party will have dinner at St. Ann's Inn at 6:30. It is expected that a large number of his followers will be at the dinner.

To Speak at 8 p. m.

The evening address of the senator will be given at 8 p. m., probably at Yost's theater. The committee in charge will make definite arrangements for meeting places later.

"I am confident Senator Johnson will be accorded a big reception in Orange county," declared D. Eymann Huff, president of the Johnson-for-Senator club. "The senator has performed a service in the national congress that a vast majority of voters of this county appreciate, and they will demonstrate their appreciation in substantial form when they have the opportunity."

Johnson's political career, both in this state and in the East, marks him as one of the nation's most prominent figures, and I am certain that Orange county voters will give him loyal support in his campaign for re-election to the senate."

To Open Drive in L. A.

The senator will make his first address in this campaign at Los Angeles, at the Philharmonic auditorium, Friday evening, July 28. The following day, Saturday, July 29, he will deliver several addresses in San Diego county. He will rest Sunday and come into this county Monday.

It was pointed out by local supporters that Johnson will have undivided support of organized labor in this state. According to Seth R. Brown, president of the State Federation of Labor, the victory won by Senator Johnson in the passage of the maritime workers' compensation law was one instance of the senator's willingness to fight the battles of labor in the senate.

"Senator Johnson's proposed amendment to the constitution, empowering congress to regulate child labor, would replace the child labor bill recently declared unconstitutional by the supreme court," says Brown. "It would give the states a chance to go on record as insisting upon the rights of American children to a good education and a little time to play."

"Johnson holds that the rights of children are more important than the prerogatives of states, and is making his customary vigorous fight for this amendment. He deserves the support of every citizen."

Johnson's record of achievement while governor along the line of humanitarian legislation is known to every Californian. He does not change in these matters; He stands now for what he sponsored then and he does not dodge the issue.

"Organized Labor appreciates not only the labor legislation accomplished by the senior senator, but is grateful too, for his highly successful efforts to help the conditions of California growers and agriculturists."

ASSERT ALIENS ARE USED ON STATE WORK

PHOENIX, July 19.—County Attorney R. E. L. Shepherd has filed thirty-five complaints against the Twoby Brothers Construction company, alleging as many violations of a state law prohibiting employment of aliens on public works in Arizona. The corporation now is finishing a second contract for concrete highways within the county, at a cost of $8,500,000. The labor largely is Mexican, and there is charged that a number of the Mexicans are not citizens of the United States.

STAGGERING TOLL TAKEN BY PESTS

siderable injury caused by fumigation, both to trees and fruit, and there is also a considerable loss due to attack of scale. A conservative estimate of this injury by practical growers has been placed at $500,000 annually, making a total loss of more than $1,600,000 each year due to these minute citrus feeding enemies.

"The most important and widely spread scale insects we have are the red scale, black scale, purple scale, citrophilus mealy bug and the baker mealy bug. If any of these pests can be brought under control by their natural enemies it will no doubt save the growers many thousands of dollars.

"The growers have banded themselves into an organization known as the Orange County Pest Control association, which takes in all fruit exchange associations in the county, all Mutual Orange distributing houses and the C. C. Chapman ranch, representing more than ninety per cent of the citrus acreage in the county.

"Incorporated in the by-laws is a clause calling for one-fourth cent per box for each packed box of citrus fruit shipped by these houses for a period of five years, beginning November 1, 1921. Ordinarily, this sum would yield about $10,000 yearly and increase with production. Two-thirds of this amount probably will be available this year.

"With this money the growers have built an insectary at Anaheim, suitable for the rearing of aphycus and rhinidius, for black scale, and cryptolaemus and tananemus, for the control of the mealy bug, as well as other predators for the control of red and purple scale.

"The insectary, which will be in charge of A. A. Brock, county horticultural commissioner, will also be in position to rear on a commercial basis any new parasite or predator which the state may introduce, so that they may be liberated in our orchards, particularly for the control of red and purple scale.

"The building will be 60 feet long and 14 feet wide, partitioned off into rooms 12x14 feet. All rooms are insect proof, the entire building being constructed of tongued and grooved flooring, waxed and painted black inside, with windows on both sides of the rooms, so that the proper ventilation, light, and heat may be maintained. These windows are covered with white cloth, so the insects will congregate there, where they may be collected.

"The building has been constructed on the Anaheim high school grounds, the school feeling that it will be of educational value to the pupils interested in biology. A hot water plant is being installed, with thermostat control. This will permit the maintenance of proper temperature and humidity for both host plants of the mealy bug and scale, and also furnish optimum conditions for the parasites and predators themselves.

"One room will be used in which to grow potato sprouts and other host plants of scale pests.

"Funds provided by the grower will be used in employing the regular laborers and in buying supplies. Claude Russell, of Ventura county, has been employed as superintendent of the insectary."

created within the drum by the use of a Lambert vacuum pump, centrifugal type. It requires only five minutes after the great door is closed upon its thick rubber gasket, to create the vacuum, after which the proper amount of hydrocyanic acid gas is liberated within the drum from the generating apparatus at the end of the tank. This vacuum is the equivalent of a pressure upon the outside of the tank of 14.9 pounds per square inch.

Shows Progress

"It is an evidence of the striking progressiveness of Orange county when the citrus growers install a modern plant of this kind," said C. E. Utt. "This places them in the forefront of the movement to produce healthy stock."

"It is said that the other plant, located at Santa Paula, is paying $400 net yearly on its cost. This does not mean that infested trees will be allowed in the county ad lib.

"It does mean, however, that safety first in control and prevention of other pests than those mentioned is the only course, and the nurserymen will combat the introduction of any badly infested stock. It is a splendid example of the spirit of co-operation and progress among the citrus men of this vicinity in working for the betterment of the industry as a whole."

A meeting of the Orange County Pest Control Association, a resolution was passed to have a committee of citrus growers request the board of supervisors to consider the installation of a vacuum fumigator similar to the one in use at Tustin, to be centrally located in the county, for the convenience of local nurserymen and those importing nursery stock.

NEW AMERICAN LEGION POST IN CHINA

CANTON, China, July 19.—China's third American Legion post has just been organized here, the others being at Shanghai and Peking. In spite of the difficulty that the American community of Canton is small and scattered, the post was formed without the aid of national or departmental Legion officials.

The 30 members include bankers, missionaries, tobacco salesmen, civil and mining and electrical engineers, automobile and oil men and sailors from a United States gunboat. There are two Chinese members, one an instructor in the college of agriculture, the other a government radio operator. Five sixths of the post have not previously been members of the American Legion.

MICHIGAN TESTING PRISONERS MENTALLY

LANSING, Mich., July 19.—Belief that defective mentality is largely responsible for the presence of many inmates in state institutions has caused the state administrative board to authorize a state survey to determine what part mentality plays in crime. Prisoners in institutions throughout the state will be classified and assigned work according to their mentality. The commission's activity is the first of its kind ever undertaken in Michigan.

GROWERS WILL SAVE GREAT SUM HERE

by the laboratory will illustrate the value of such information.

"Two manures were available, at the same price per cubic foot. The grower purchased what we shall call No. 1, on the basis of his own individual judgment of the material. After applying No. 1 to about half of five acres, the grower decided to submit two samples to the laboratory for analysis. The analysis showed the following values:

"Number 1—organic matter, 11 per cent; dirt, etc., 65; moisture, 24; nitrogen, 0.47.

"Number 2—organic matter, 24 per cent; dirt, 7 per cent; moisture, 69 per cent; nitrogen, 0.71 per cent.

"Thus it will be seen that No. 2 contains over twice as much organic matter as No. 1, and nearly twice as much nitrogen. One contains sixty-five per cent dirt, and the other about the same amount of water, so that in either case, a large proportion of waste material had to be handled, but at the price paid, the manure represented a fair value.

Secures Better Results.

"On the basis of these results, the grower bought No. 2 for the remainder of the ranch, thereby securing $55 more in plant food values in the fertilizer. The cost of the two analyses was only $7.

"There is no way of accurately estimating the value of manure except by expert chemical analysis. In one case a difference of $172 in plant food values was shown by an analysis of two manures available for spreading on a twenty-acre tract.

"The unit basis of purchase is being adopted by the growers and fertilizer dealers. A unit of nitrogen, or organic matter, is one per cent, or twenty pounds per ton, and the cost of a pound of nitrogen, or organic matter, varies with the general market. At present the nitrogen in manures is worth $4.50 per unit, and organic matter 4.5 cents delivered in Orange county.

"The nitrogen and organic matter are determined by the laboratory in a manner that leaves no chance for doubt. The test assures the grower that he will receive exactly what he pays for and he knows precisely what he is applying to his grove.

Explains Sampling.

"When delivery is made in carload lots sampling is done by the laboratory staff. Such service, including sampling and analysis, will cost about seventeen cents per ton on the average car. Tight cans, holding about one-eighth of a cubic foot, are provided for truck sampling.

"One can is filled from each truck by the driver or grower, or both, and after delivery is completed all material in the cans is thoroughly mixed in the laboratory and the analysis made on the samples obtained. The seller is thoroughly protected, since there is no loss of moisture in the tight containers, and both buyer and seller should be entirely satisfied as to the sampling. The cost of such sampling may not exceed a few cents per ton.

"Last June a sampling was made by the laboratory staff of a ten-year-old grove which, up to that date, had not been irrigated. The soil is a sandy loam. It showed an average of ten per cent moisture in the three-foot column which, in that soil, is ample for the proper tree growth.

Useless Irrigation.

"The adjacent ten acres had been irrigated twice before that date, and was again being irrigated when the sampling was done. It is apparent, therefore, that the two irrigations applied previous to June 28, on the adjoining acreage, represented a waste of water, money, time, and energy, to say nothing of the saturated soil in which the trees had to live. These figures illustrate how much waste and guess work there is in our irrigation practice.

"Apparatus has been provided at the laboratory for determining the optimum, or proper moisture conditions, for any given soil, as well as for the rapid and accurate determination of soil moisture.

"It is possible to take a sample one day, mail it to the laboratory in Anaheim, at a cost of five cents, and receive the returns as to the actual amount of moisture the second day, at a total cost of only fifty-five cents. By irrigating on the basis of such information, maintenance of the best moisture conditions for trees is absolutely assured.

"Sick" Tree Causes.

"The yellow appearance of trees, or 'sick' trees, may be due to a number of causes, which can usually be determined by a careful field and laboratory examination of the soil. At present a number of such cases are being handled. In two cases an excess of moisture present in the soil, entirely unsuspected, probably accounts for the yellow appearance of the trees.

"This, in brief, is a resume of the work done at the laboratory. It has been established in the midst of the groves, so that field conditions and laboratory results can be studied together. Its facilities are available to all and it is designed to fill a long felt need in Orange county.

"A cordial invitation is extended to growers and others to visit the laboratory, on the grounds of the Anaheim Citrus Fruit association, Lincoln avenue, Anaheim."

RAILWAY BOARD ORDER CHANGE PLEA DENIED

The state railroad commission has denied the application of the city of Fullerton for a modification of an order granting the Los Angeles and Salt Lake railroad permission to maintain a grade crossing on South Spadra road, according to word received here today from the commission's headquarters in San Francisco.

A joint suoway for the Santa Fe and Salt Lake, as suggested by the city, it was found would cost, according to estimates of the commission's engineering department, from approximately $164,000 to $190,000, while a subway for the Salt Lake alone would cost in the neighborhood of $80,000.

As the Salt Lake runs only one train a day each way across South Spadra road, the commission declared the expense of a subway was not warranted by the hazard.

The city trustees announced that they were opposed to the city's bearing any of the cost.

SWIMMING EXPERT CLAIMS OIL CITY GIRL IS MARVEL

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 19.—"Huntington Beach has a genuine swimming marvel in the person of the girl, Genevieve Whippleman. She is a swimming wonder for her age and experience and in another season I hope to have her trained to enter and win championship races. She already has speed and style and with training will be a comer in athletics. Remember the name and watch what a Huntington Beach girl can do. Her little sister is also of promise but her stroke is just being perfected and she is very young," said Fred A. McDonald, professional swimmer and instructor at the Huntington Beach plunge, today in commenting on the potential professional swimmers and championship winners who make use of the plunge.

McDonald entertained with an exhibition of fancy and trick diving at the plunge recently, creating much amusement by falling into the water fully dressed to emerge after several minutes in swimming trunks.

Winners of the recent races for children under 15 years of age, recently held at the plunge are as follows:

Back stroke, 25 yards, girls' race, time 18 seconds, won by Miss Genevieve Whippleman, first place, and Evelyn Whippleman, second.

Boys' free-style stroke, 25 yards, time 20 seconds, won by Gene Belshie, first; Ralph Spaulding, second.

Boys' 50-yard race, breast stroke, time 31 seconds; Gene Belshie first, Ralph Spaulding, second; Clarence Taylor, third.

Boys' 50-yard free-style race, time 28 seconds, won by Gene Belshie, first; Clarence Taylor, second, and Cecil Clayton, third.

PRESENT GIFT TO RETIRING MINISTER

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 19.—Esteem and appreciation were the incentives behind a gathering of people at the Christian church who assembled recently to say farewell to the retiring pastor, the Reverend Mr. Harlow.

An interesting program of music and readings was given and then followed the presentations of two lovely chairs, the presentation speech being delivered by Fyrl W. Elliott in behalf of the donors who were members of the church, as well as personal friends.

Ice cream and cake served in abundance closed a very jolly meeting.

July 8 marked Mack A. Penny's eightieth birthday and the occasion for a gathering of his friends to celebrate the day. Those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Hearn, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Lovett, J. B. Van Fleet and Miss Mary Van Fleet, Mr. and Mrs. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour, Mr. and Mrs. Denmore, Mr. and Mrs. Gallienne, Mrs. Eliza Lindsey, Mrs. Jane DeLapp, Mrs. Julia Kerr, Mrs. Viola Godfrey, Mrs. Flora Scott, Mrs. Sarah Smith, Mrs. Mary Purpison, Mrs. Minnie Higgins, Mrs. C. C. Crawford, Mrs. Genevieve McWhorter, Mrs. Kennick, F. L. Candee and T. H. Green.

Captain and Mrs. F. P. Candee have as a guest their son, Fred L. Candee, of Winsboro, South Carolina, who expects to remain with his parents for about six weeks. The Winsboro Cotton mills conduct an educational school with their plant and F. L. Candee is the director of the school.

W. A. Jenkins has returned from a visit to his parents and relatives in Carrollton, Illinois, where he was called because of the illness of his mother, from which she has happily recovered.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harlow left Thursday for Ft. Fairfield, Maine. They expect to be away about a month.

Howard Ogle, a former member of the faculty of the Huntington Beach high school, has been visiting here for a few weeks and marvels at the changes he sees about the town.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Sharpe have their cousin, Elmer Claypool, as a house guest this week.

Mrs. B. Martin has given up her residence at Third street and Olive avenue and gone to Santa Fe Springs to live.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Swartz have had as their house guests Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Swartz, of San Francisco. They will spend their summer vacation in Huntington Beach.

Miss Maud Moore, of San Diego, where she is a teacher in the high school, is here visiting her parents, who live at Ninth and Olive streets.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Dyke, of Redlands, spent a few days visiting about Huntington Beach last week.

W. A. Jenkins has returned from a visit to relatives in Chicago. He was away several weeks and is once again at his home, 201 Seventh street.

W. H. Wharton and his daughter, Miss Marcella Wharton, have gone to Big Bear lake for their vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal Anderson have taken an apartment at the Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Swartz have as a house guest Mrs. G. E. Hensler, of San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Clarke, of Eleventh street, have as house guests for the summer their granddaughters, the Misses Lois and Margaret Clarke, of Santa Ana.

Mrs. Thomas P. Smith, accompanied by her daughter, Mildred, have taken an apartment at the Jones for the summer.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Mystery surrounds the sudden eccentricity of three wealthy and sedate brothers, one of them the father of youthfulness.

PATRICIA DRAKE, alarmed because of the evident terror which has gripped the trio, Patricia asks the advice of her guardian, ATTORNEY JOHN WELLS, and tells him that two weeks ago her father, HOBART DRAKE, a Wall Street broker, clothed himself in a sheet and went to the town square where he delivered a mock oration. A few days later her uncle, ROGER DRAKE, an eminent scientist, made a burlesque of a scientific address. That morning, the third brother, her uncle, ANDREW, was found seated on the floor playing with toys. The three are sane, sober and respected men. Wells asks OWEN MILES, detective sergeant, to investigate.

GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER II

"I have never encountered so strange a case," John Wells remarked when the office door closed behind their young client.

"I have been the attorney for Hobart Drake and his sister Jean for the past twenty years and their affairs are in perfect shape." The attorney sat back in his chair and placed the tips of his fingers together reflectively.

"Roger's brilliant scientific career speaks for itself and Andrew made a big financial success of his sheep ranch. I had known the family years ago but not intimately."

"They held themselves aloof from the neighbors with a bitter pride of poverty which resents the memory of past affluence."

"I should like to know how they impressed you before prosperity returned to them," the detective asked. "I want to gauge what changes the past twenty years have made in their several characters. It's evident from the widely different careers which they chose that the three brothers are as far apart in temperament as the poles."

"They always were," Wells remarked. "Roger is the oldest of the family—he must be about forty-eight—and except in outward appearance, he has changed the least, in my estimation. He was always a dreamer, a shy sort of youth. Andrew, two years his junior, was just the opposite; boisterous and fun-loving, and more sociable than any of the rest. Jerusha—Miss Drake—comes next. She was dignified and austere even as a mere girl."

"What of the third brother, the father of the young lady?" "There you will find the greatest change, Sergeant." The attorney spoke hastily and in a more confidential tone as if to make amends for his implied suggestion. "Hobart was a drab, colorless young bank clerk at twenty-three, wholly without ambition to get out of the rut. Now he is a dynamic force on the Street and until this unfortunate episode the leading citizen of his community. I cannot believe that his sanity is in question, much less that all three brothers should be attacked at virtually the same time! I feel that there must be some other explanation!"

The attorney pushed back his chair and rising, moved to the window where he stood for a moment. Then he wheeled: "Sergeant, I haven't a theory, a suspicion, an idea of a possible solution! The whole thing is monstrous, incredible! If I were ignorant and superstitious, if I believed in the Evil Eye."

He left the sentence unfinished and Owen Miles smiled slightly once more.

"But science has proved the existence of the modern equivalent of the Evil Eye, hasn't it, sir? Isn't that what you're getting at?"

"You mean hypnotism, of course? It seems so bizarre a thought to entertain seriously. If these three brothers are not the victims of some strange drug, self-administered or otherwise, which is slowly driving them mad, what possible alternative explanation is there?"

The detective rose also and tapped up his hat from the desk. "We shall see."

The afternoon was well advanced when Sergeant Owen Miles approached the long lines of glistening greenhouses near a country club and then paused at a hearty voice hailed him from the golf links. Turning he beheld a stocky, robust figure clad in golfing clothes striding vigorously toward him.

"What the dickens!" Miles stared as they clasped hands. "Scottie, what's come over you that you are fooling around with the idle rich at a country club?"

"Didn't you hear, Owen, my lad?" Fergus McCreedy beamed joyously on his youthful friend. "This community has seen fit to take me up social like, and I've taken up my own national game to keep in shape."

"I've got a bigger game on than golf, Scottie, and I hoped you would like to take a hand in it with me."

He paused suggestively and Scottie rose to the bait. "What is the case, laddie?"

When the story was concluded he remarked briefly: "I'm with you. It may be a madhouse we're going to but it sounds to me like something very different."

CHAPTER III

Just after the dinner hour that evening, Sergeant Miles, alias William Brown, the new houseman, presented himself at the kitchen door of the square old Colonial house in which so many generations of the Drake family had lived.

An elderly butler made his appearance. "The new houseman? Miss Drake will see you in the servants' sitting-room."

Almost immediately a tall, gray-haired woman entered. "My niece engaged you at our usual agency?" Her voice was deeply contralto and it seemed to Miles that her bright, dark eyes beneath the strong brows were attempting to bore him through. "Did she explain the duties which would be required of you?"

"Everything is quite satisfactory, William," she said, after he had answered the routine questions. "We will give you a trial. Carter will show you to your room and Pierre will have some supper prepared for you in the servants' dining-room."

Carter, the butler, reappeared and led the way up two flights of back stairs to a small but immaculate room at the side of the house. Miles waited until he heard the others' footsteps descending the stairs before he extinguished the light and raised the shade.

As he looked across the grounds, a shambling male figure strolled down the drive. It was assuredly neither the rotund chief nor the elderly, dignified butler. Could it be the 'outside man' or was there an eavesdropper, an interloper hanging about the place?

Descending to the ground floor, Miles wandered out through the entry and across the driveway.

The hour was growing late and it was probable that he would have no opportunity that night to encounter the three brothers. Miles turned just as the shambling figure came sauntering around the bushes.

"What you doin' here?" The negro's teeth were chattering in his head.

"Who are you?" Miles countered amiably. "I'm William Brown, the new houseman."

"Dat's de tru?" Ripides Lunt, Rip for short, night watchman till midnight and most everything else outdoors in de daytime.

"Why, what's the matter?" Miles laughed. "There can't be any danger of tramps or burglars?"

Ripides chewed ruminatively for a moment. "There's more dan tramps an' thieves can come sashayin' round. Some mighty funny things goin' on in dis here neighborhood lately an' when de next comes off it's goin' to be where Rip Lunt ain't—I got to be movin'!"

Without encountering the reluctant watchman again, Miles entered the house and made his way up the back stairs to his own room.

All was dark on that side of the house now save in the room just below his own.

Someone was pacing the floor of that room below with a measured tread which told of deep concentration.

Drawing on a dark bathrobe and slippers Miles opened his door noiselessly and crept down one flight of stairs, making for the door which he calculated as being directly under his own. He had gone but a few steps when a door across the hall opened with a jerk, and a short, almost burly figure with tousled brown hair and a heavy, sun-browned countenance crossed to the other door and turned the knob softly.

Miles was close enough to hear the subdued, yet urgent tones of the newcomer.

"Roger, let me in! I want to speak to you!"

"What is it, Andrew? Am I never to have any peace?"

The door closed again behind the two and Miles crept to it and laid his ear close to the panel.

"It's just this, Roger; you'll go to pieces if you're not careful. The hearty, slightly aggressive tones of Andrew Drake were louder now, but roughly affectionate.

"You gave yourself dead away to-night to that bug-hunting, weed-gathering nut, Grayle. He seems to be your best friend, but even he'll begin to think and talk like the rest of the town if you don't help to pass the whole thing off as a joke."

"Joke!" repeated Roger in trembling tones. "Is there any joke in what has descended upon us?"

"Look here!" Andrew spoke with the patient, incisive emphasis of one imparting a lesson. "Hobart had a drop too much aboard when he went out and made that Julius Caesar speech, and your lecture was an ill-advised bit of pleasantry, while I was only playing a trick this morning to scare that fool Edward. Got that straight?"

A moan was Roger's only answer and Andrew growled: "What's your idea, then? Do you want the whole town to think that we are afflicted?"

There had been a palpable pause before the last word. "Aren't we?" Roger's voice was vibrant with sudden tragedy. "Haven't we been for years, even though we three have managed until now to conceal it from the rest of the world? What is the end going to be? I can see the writing on the wall and I tell you that I am not going to endure it until utter madness comes! There is a quick way out, quick and sure!"

STEADY HARVEST IS REAPED BY COUNTY IN OVERLOAD CASES

The county is reaping a steady harvest of fines from truckmen who stack their trucks with loads in excess of the legal weight limit, it was revealed today by an inspection of records in Justice J. B. Cox's court.

Judge Cox has collected $60 in fines so far this week from violators of the load weight law. This amount brings the total for the month to $100.

The customary fine for such an offense has been $20 in the local court. The three who paid their "double eagles" this week were L. A. Johnston, R. S. Dyer and F. W. Carlsgard.

FILE ACTION TO WIN $800 ON NOTE CLAIM

Alleging that the sum of $800 was due him from Mercedena P. Garcia, Jesus Vramontes had today filed an action in the superior court, seeking judgment for that amount.

The suit was based on an alleged note for $800, on which the plaintiff claimed only $100 had been paid.

DEFAULT IS ENTERED IN QUIET TITLE CASE

Default judgment in favor of William F. Slater and Ruth Slater, who filed suit against P. W. Sampson and others to quiet title to twenty acres of land, had been entered today in the superior court. Judge K. S. Mahon, presiding in department 1, heard the case late Friday.

on Sale Now

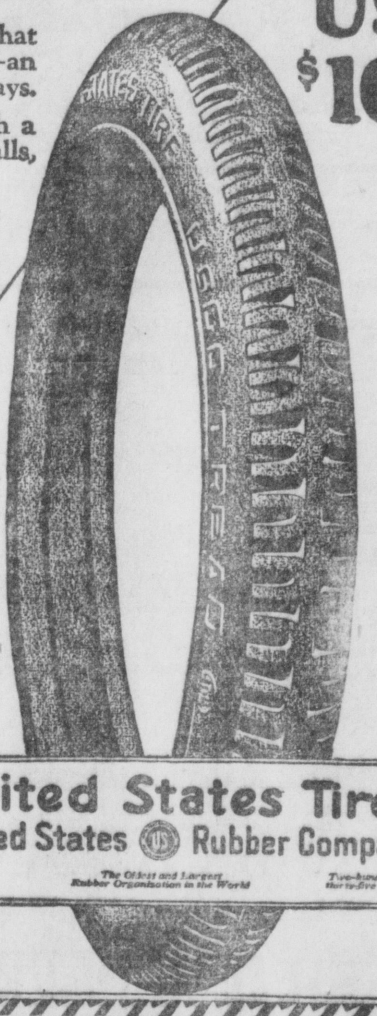

USCO set the high value mark for 30 x 3½ tires when it originated the $10.90 price last Fall. USCO today betters that mark with a new and greater USCO—an USCO improved in many important ways.

For instance, a thicker tread—with a surer hold on the road—thicker side walls, adding strength and life to the tire.

And the price is $10.90—with the tax absorbed by the manufacturer.

Men have always looked to USCO for the biggest tire money's worth on the market.

They always get a bigger tire money's worth than they expect.

More Than a Store —An Institution

—The broad scope of the Chandler home furnishings service places it in a class by itself, making it an institution in Orange County not surpassed by any furniture store in the state in point of serving its own local community.

—Chandler's wide range of stock enables one to make a suitable selection to furnish the most humble cottage or the finest residence.

—Here you will find an assortment ranging from the most moderately priced patterns of good furniture to as finely built pieces as artisans can produce.

—The buying of our stocks is not confined to selections from manufacturers' catalogs and ordering through salesmen and jobbers. Members of the firm visit the great Eastern home furnishings exhibitions and make personal selections right at the big furniture producing centers.

—The sale of a piece of furniture at Chandler's is but the beginning of the transaction which is not completed until the article gives complete satisfaction and lasting service.

—For that reason we must be sure first that the quality is right, and second, that at the price quoted it must represent sterling value.

—This is followed by careful, courteous delivery, and a home beautifying service which places at your disposal the experience of expert decorators, men who are qualified to suggest the most artistic arrangement of furniture, and who will assist in planning your draperies.

HUGE WELCOME TO BE GIVEN TO JOHNSON

With information available today definitely scheduling United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson's arrival in Orange county for 10 a. m., Monday, July 31, the executive committee of the Johnson-for-Senator club here began intensively to develop plans for giving the senator a full day of activity in the county.

Johnson will arrive here from San Diego by automobile at 10 a. m. and will be met by a group of local men, according to Howard Turner, secretary of the club.

The distinguished visitor and his party will be driven to Fullerton, where the senator will make an address at 11:30 a. m. Luncheon will be had at Elks' club, Anaheim, where it is expected a large number of his staunchest supporters from all parts of the county will greet him.

Johnson will deliver an address in that city at 1:30 p. m. Addresses are scheduled for Orange at 2:30 p. m. and at Huntington Beach at 4:30 p. m. The places for the addresses are yet to be designated.

Returning from Huntington Beach at 6 p. m., the party will have dinner at St. Ann's Inn at 6:30. It is expected that a large number of his followers will be at the dinner.

To Speak at 8 p. m.

The evening address of the senator will be given at 8 p. m., probably at Yost's theater. The committee in charge will make definite arrangements for meeting places later.

"I am confident Senator Johnson will be accorded a big reception in Orange county," declared D. Eymann Huff, president of the Johnson-for-Senator club. "The senator has performed a service in the national congress that the vast majority of voters in this county appreciate, and they will demonstrate their appreciation in substantial form when they have the opportunity."

"Johnson's political career, both in this state and in the East, marks him as one of the nation's most prominent figures, and I am certain that Orange county voters will give him loyal support in his campaign for re-election to the senate."

To Open Drive in L. A.

The senator will make his first address in this campaign at Los Angeles, at the Philharmonic auditorium, Friday evening, July 28. The following day, Saturday, July 29, he will deliver several addresses in San Diego county. He will rest Sunday and come into this county Monday.

It was pointed out by local supporters that Johnson will have undivided support of organized labor in this state. According to Seth R. Brown, president of the State Federation of Labor, the victory won by Senator Johnson in the passage of the maritime workers' compensation law was one instance of the senator's willingness to fight the battles of labor in the senate.

"Senator Johnson's proposed amendment to the constitution, empowering congress to regulate child labor, would replace the child labor bill recently declared unconstitutional by the supreme court," says Brown. "It would give the states a chance to go on record as insisting upon the rights of American children to a good education and a little time to play."

"Johnson holds that the rights of children are more important than the prerogatives of states, and is making his customary vigorous fight for this amendment. He deserves the support of every citizen."

"Johnson's record of achievement while governor along the line of humanitarian legislation is known to every Californian. He does not change in these matters. He stands now for what he sponsored then and he does not dodge the issue."

"Organized Labor appreciates not only the labor legislation accomplished by the senior senator, but is grateful too, for his highly successful efforts to help the conditions of California growers and agriculturists."

NEW AMERICAN LEGION POST IN CHINA

CANTON, China, July 19.—China's third American Legion post has just been organized here, the others being at Shanghai and Peking. In spite of the difficulty that the American community of Canton is small and scattered, the post was formed without the aid of national or departmental Legion officials.

The 30 members include bankers, missionaries, tobacco salesmen, civil and mining and electrical engineer, automobile and oil men and sailors from a United States gunboat. There are two Chinese members, one an instructor in the college of agriculture, the other a government radio operator. Five sixths of the post have not previously been members of the American Legion.

MICHIGAN TESTING PRISONERS MENTALLY

LANSING, Mich., July 19.—Belief that defective mentality is largely responsible for the presence of many inmates in state institutions has caused the state administrative board to authorize a state survey to determine what part mentality plays in crime. Prisoners in institutions throughout the state will be classified and assigned work according to their mentality. The commission's activity is the first of its kind ever undertaken in Michigan.

ASSERT ALIENS ARE USED ON STATE WORK

PHOENIX, July 19.—County Attorney R. E. L. Shepherd has filed thirty-five complaints against the Twohy Brothers Construction company, alleging as many violations of a state law prohibiting employment of aliens on public works in Arizona. The corporation now is finishing a second contract for concrete highways within the county, the two jobs involving construction of over 300 miles of roadway, at a cost of $3,500,000. The labor largely is Mexican, and there is charged that a number of the Mexicans are not citizens of the United States.

siderable injury caused by fumigation, both to trees and fruit, and there is also a considerable loss due to attack of scale. A conservative estimate of this injury by practical growers has been placed at $500,000 annually, making a total loss of more than $1,000,000 each year due to these minute citrus feeding enemies.

"The most important and widely spread scale insects we have are the red scale, black scale, purple scale, citrophilus mealy bug and the baker mealy bug. If any of these pests can be brought under control by their natural enemies it will no doubt save the growers many thousands of dollars."

"The growers have banded themselves into an organization known as the Orange County Pest Control association, which takes in all fruit exchange associations in the county, all Mutual Orange distributing houses, and the C. C. Chapman ranch, representing more than ninety per cent of the citrus acreage in the county."

"Incorporated in the by-laws is a clause calling for one-fourth cent per box for each packed box of citrus fruit shipped by these houses for a period of five years, beginning November 1, 1921. Ordinarily, this sum would yield about $10,000 yearly and increase with production. Two-thirds of this amount probably will be available this year."

"With this money the growers have built an insectary at Anaheim, suitable for the rearing of aphidius and rhinobius, for black scale, and cryptolemus and tetraneura, for the control of the mealy bug, as well as other predators for the control of red and purple scale."

"The insectary, which will be in charge of A. A. Brock, county horticultural commissioner, will also be in position to rear on a commercial basis any new parasite or predator which the state may introduce, so that they may be liberated in our orchards, particularly for the control of red and purple scale."

"The building will be 60 feet long and 14 feet wide, partitioned off into rooms 12x14 feet. All rooms are insect proof, the entire building being constructed of tongue and groove flooring, waxed and painted black inside, with windows on both sides of the rooms, so that the proper ventilation, light, and heat may be maintained. These windows are covered with white cloth, so the insects will congregate there, where they may be collected."

"The building has been constructed on the Anaheim high school grounds, the school feeling that it will be of educational value to the pupils interested in biology. A hot water plant is being installed, with thermostat control. This will permit the maintenance of proper temperature and humidity for both host plants of the mealy bug and scale, and also furnish optimum conditions for the parasites and predators themselves."

"One room will be used in which to grow potato sprouts and other host plants of scale pests."

"Funds provided by the grower will be used in employing the regular laborers and in buying supplies. Claude Russell, of Ventura county, has been employed as superintendent of the insectary."

PRaise FUMIGATOR IN USE AT TUSTIN

created within the drum by the use of a Lambert vacuum pump, centrifugal type. It requires only five minutes after the great door is closed upon its thick rubber gasket, to create the vacuum, after which the proper amount of hydrocyanic acid gas is liberated within the drum from the generating apparatus at the end of the tank. This vacuum is the equivalent of a pressure upon the outside of the tank of 14.9 pounds per square inch.

Shows Progress

"It is an evidence of the striking progressiveness of Orange county when the citrus growers install a modern plant of this kind," said C. E. Ott. "This places them in the forefront of the movement to produce healthy stock."

"It is said that the other plant, located at Santa Paula, is paying $400 net yearly on its cost. This does not mean that infested trees will be allowed in the county at all."

"It does mean, however, that safety first in control and prevention of other pests than those mentioned is the only course, and the nurserymen will combat the introduction of any badly infested stock. It is a splendid example of the spirit of co-operation and progress among the citrus men of this vicinity in working for the betterment of the industry as a whole."

A meeting of the Orange County Pest Control Association, a resolution was passed to have a committee of citrus growers request the board of supervisors to consider the installation of a vacuum fumigator similar to the one in use at Tustin, to be centrally located in the county, for the convenience of local nurserymen and those importing nursery stock.

GROWERS WILL SAVE GREAT SUM HERE

by the laboratory will illustrate the value of such information.

"Two manures were available, at the same price per cubic foot. The grower purchased what we shall call No. 1, on the basis of his own individual judgment of the material. After applying No. 1 to about half of five acres, the grower decided to submit two samples to the laboratory for analysis. The analysis showed the following values:

"Number 1—organic matter 11 per cent; dirt, etc., 65; moisture, 24; nitrogen, 0.47.

"Number 2—organic matter, 24 per cent; dirt, 7 per cent; moisture, 69 per cent; nitrogen, 0.71 per cent.

"Thus it will be seen that No. 2 contains over twice as much organic matter as No. 1, and nearly twice as much nitrogen. One contains sixty-five per cent dirt, and the other about the same amount of water, so that in either case, a large proportion of waste material had to be handled, but at the prices paid, the manure represented a fair value."

Secures Better Results.

"On the basis of these results, the grower bought No. 2 for the remainder of the ranch, thereby securing $55 more in plant food values in the fertilizer. The cost of the two analyses was only $7."

"There is no way of accurately estimating the value of manure except by expert chemical analysis. In one case a difference of $172 in plant food values was shown by an analysis of two manures available for spreading on a twenty-acre tract."

"The unit basis of purchase is being adopted by the growers and fertilizer dealers. A unit of nitrogen, or organic matter, is one per cent, or twenty pounds per ton, and the cost of a pound of nitrogen, or organic matter, varies with the general market. At present the nitrogen in manures is worth $4.50 per unit, and organic matter 4.5 cents delivered in Orange county."

"The nitrogen and organic matter are determined by the laboratory in a manner that leaves no chance for doubt. The test assures the grower that he will receive exactly what he pays for and he knows precisely what he is applying to his grove."

Explains Sampling.

"When delivery is made in carload lots sampling is done by the laboratory staff. Such service, including sampling and analysis, will cost about seventeen cents per ton on the average car. Tight cans, holding about one-eighth of a cubic foot, are provided for truck sampling."

"One can is filled from each truck by the driver or grower, or both, and after delivery is completed all material in the cans is thoroughly mixed in the laboratory and the analysis made on the samples obtained. The seller is thoroughly protected, since there is no loss of moisture in the tight containers, and both buyer and seller should be entirely satisfied as to the sampling. The cost of such sampling may not exceed a few cents per ton."

"Last June a sampling was made by the laboratory staff of a ten-year-old grove which, up to that date, had not been irrigated. The soil is a sandy loam. It showed an average of ten per cent moisture in the three-foot column which, in that soil, is ample for the proper tree growth."

Useless Irrigation.

"The adjacent ten acres had been irrigated twice before that date, and was again being irrigated when the sampling was done. It is apparent, therefore, that the two irrigations applied previous to June 23, on the adjoining acreage, represented a waste of water, money, time and energy, to say nothing of the saturated soil in which the trees had to live. These figures illustrate how much waste and guess work there is in our irrigation practice."

"Apparatus has been provided at the laboratory for determining the optimum, or proper moisture conditions, for any given soil, as well as for the rapid and accurate determination of soil moisture."

"It is possible to take a sample one day, mail it to the laboratory in Anaheim, at a cost of five cents, and receive the returns as to the actual amount of moisture the second day, at a total cost of only fifty-five cents. By irrigating on the basis of such information, maintenance of the best moisture conditions for trees is absolutely assured."

"Sick" Tree Causes.

"The yellow appearance of trees, or 'sick' trees, may be due to a number of causes, which can usually be determined by a careful field and laboratory examination of the soil. At present a number of such cases are being handled. In two cases an excess of moisture present in the soil, entirely unsuspected, probably accounts for the yellow appearance of the trees."

"This, in brief, is a resume of the work done at the laboratory. It has been established in the midst of the groves, so that field conditions and laboratory results can be studied together. Its facilities are available to all and it is designed to fill a long felt need in Orange county."

A cordial invitation is extended to growers and others to visit the laboratory, on the grounds of the Anaheim Citrus Fruit association, Lincoln avenue, Anaheim."

RAILWAY BOARD ORDER CHANGE PLEA DENIED

The state railroad commission has denied the application of the city of Fullerton for a modification of an order granting the Los Angeles and Salt Lake railroad permission to maintain a grade crossing on South Spadra road, according to word received here today from the commission's headquarters in San Francisco.

A joint survey for the Santa Fe and Salt Lake, as suggested by the city, it was found would cost, according to estimates of the commission's engineering department, from approximately $164,000 to $190,000, while a subway for the Salt Lake alone would cost in the neighborhood of $80,000.

As the Salt Lake runs only one train a day each way across South Spadra road, the commission declared the expense of a subway was not warranted by the hazard.

The city trustees announced that they were opposed to the city's bearing any of the cost.

HUNTINGTON BEACH

RESERVATIONS UNDER WAY FOR CAMP

SWIMMING EXPERT CLAIMS OIL CITY GIRL IS MARVEL

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 19.—Reservations are being booked at the Chamber of Commerce for accommodations for quarters during the encampment of the Southern California Veterans' association at Camp A. B. Paul, which will convene here August 15 for 10 days.

The first applications for reservations were from J. S. Kenyon and J. C. Mordough of Hollywood, both members of a cavalry regiment in the Civil war. They engaged two tents with accommodations for 10 people each.

New York state headquarters will be at the Mordough's tent. W. J. Lieser, of Santa Ana, engaged a tent for two people; Mrs. M. A. Pendleton, of Santa Ana, engaged a tent for three persons; Alice A. Yount, president of the Woman's Auxiliary association, engaged a tent for two persons.

Much interest is being shown by the residents of Huntington Beach as well as by numerous visitors. Work upon the encampment grounds is to be started immediately, said the efficient secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, M. A. McCreery, who is devoting himself personally to superintending all preparations for the encampment.

INCREASED INTEREST SHOWN IN ELECTION SCHEDULED AT BEACH

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 19.—Interest in the forthcoming election to decide whether the oil-drilling restrictions of Huntington Beach are to be lifted grows with the approach of the election and opposition is given free voice, it is said.

"This is a vital subject and the election is going to be warmly contested," said W. L. Papp, real estate operator here today. Referring to the "campaign of education" to be conducted by C. W. Schouboe, he continued:

"It will be a campaign upon informative lines and based entirely on facts to teach the people that while oil is an asset to the city, the building section is more important as a home and housing proposition. This is a most important feature. Many of the improvements now contemplated by Huntington Beach would not be wise nor would they be needed. For instance, the paving of Ocean avenue, though badly needed right now for a city would hardly be a necessity for an oil town."

James S. Lawshe, of the Huntington Beach company, said:

"As a company we are abiding entirely by the decision of the people as will be shown by the voting in August. Our land interests will be valuable with either decision but we would like to see a greater development of Huntington Beach, than has been and we feel that the people are entitled to have the sort of a town they prefer."

MANY ARRIVALS ARE RECORDED AT BEACH

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 19.—Change of residence and newcomers to Huntington Beach the past week are as follows:

W. J. Cameron has moved to 304 Sixth street; J. J. Addington, 1409 Orange; G. A. Petrick, 527 Lake; G. Harwood, 208 Walnut; Mrs. Gladys Doster, 203 Second; J. Q. Bass, 707 Alhambra; G. R. SURPRISE WEDDING

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 19.—Thurman Means and Mrs. Effie B. Wilkinson, of this city, surprised their relatives and friends recently by slipping away to Los Angeles, where they were quietly married. They are now spending their honeymoon in Yosemite valley and upon their return will make their home here.

FISHING IS GOOD

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 19.—Fishing from the pier the past few days has had no sharp variation from the usual catches of the varieties running at this season of the year, halibut, mackerel, bass and spot-fish croakers. A few barracuda and one four-pound shovel-headed shark furnished the only excitement of the past week.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 19.—Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Howell, of this city, entertained a few of their friends at a wedding anniversary on the beach last Friday in honor of their wedding anniversary.

Those present including the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Howell, were: Mr. and Mrs. George McCurdy, Mr. and Mrs. A. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. M. McIndoo and niece, Miss Smith; Mrs. E. Carwell, of Tustin, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Kippen, of Anaheim.

"The Tattooed Arm"

(By Isabel Ostender)

(Copyrighted)

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Mystery surrounds the sudden eccentricity of three wealthy and sedate brothers, one of them the father of youthful

PATRICIA DRAKE. Alarmed because of the evident terror which had gripped the trio, Patricia asks the advice of her guardian.

ATTORNEY JOHN WELLS, and tells him that two weeks ago her father, HOBART DRAKE, a Wall Street broker, clothed himself in a sheet and went to the town square where he delivered a mock oration. A few days later her uncle,

ROGER DRAKE, an eminent scientist, made a burlesque of a scientific address. That morning, the third brother, her uncle,

ANDREW, was found seated on the floor playing with toys. The three are sane, sober and respected men. Wells asks

OWEN MILES, detective sergeant, to investigate.

GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER II

"I have never encountered so strange a case," John Wells remarked when the office door closed behind their young client.

"I have been the attorney for Hobart Drake and his sister Jerusha for the past twenty years and their affairs are in perfect shape." The attorney sat back in his chair and placed the tips of his fingers together reflectively.

"Roger's brilliant scientific career speaks for itself and Andrew made a big financial success of his sheep ranch. I had known the family years ago but not intimately.

"They held themselves aloof from the neighbors with a bitter pride of poverty which resents the memory of past affluence. I should like to know how they impressed you before prosperity returned to them," the detective asked.

"I want to gauge what changes the past twenty years have made in their several characters. It's evident from the widely different careers which they chose that the three brothers are as far apart in temperament as the poles."

"They always were," Wells remarked reminiscently. "Roger is the oldest of the family—he must be about forty-eight—and except in outward appearance, he has changed the least, in my estimation. He was always a dreamer, a shy sort of youth. Andrew, two years his junior, was just the opposite; boisterous and fun-loving, and more sociable than any of the rest. Jerusha—Miss Drake—comes next. She was dignified and austere even as a mere girl."

"What of the third brother, the father of the young lady?" "There you will find the greatest change, Sergeant." The attorney spoke hastily and in a more confidential tone as if to make amends for his implied suggestion.

"Hobart was a drab, colorless young bank clerk at twenty-three, wholly without ambition to get out of the rut. Now he is a dynamic force on the Street and until this unfortunate episode the leading citizen of his community. I cannot believe that his sanity is in question, much less that all three brothers should be attacked at virtually the same time! I feel that there must be some other explanation!"

The attorney pushed back his chair and rising, moved to the window where he stood for a moment. Then he wheeled: "Sergeant, I have a theory, a suspicion, an idea of a possible solution! The whole thing is monstrous, incredible! If I were ignorant and superstitious, if I believed in the Evil Eye—I!"

He left the sentence unfinished and Owen Miles smiled slightly once more.

"But science has proved the existence of the modern equivalent of the Evil Eye, hasn't it, sir? Isn't that what you're getting at?"

"You mean hypnotism, of course? It seems so bizarre a thought to entertain seriously. If these three brothers are not the victims of some strange drug, self-administered or otherwise, which is slowly driving them mad, what possible alternative explanation is there?"

The detective rose also and picked up his hat from the desk. "We shall see."

The afternoon was well advanced when Sergeant Owen Miles approached the long lines of glistening greenhouses near a country club and then paused as a hearty voice hailed him from the golf links. Turning he beheld a stocky, robust figure clad in golfing clothes striding vigorously toward him.

"What the dickens!" Miles stared as they clasped hands. "Scottie, what's come over you that you are fooling around with the idle rich at a country club?"

"Didn't you hear, Owen, my dad?" Fergus McCready beamed joyously on his youthful friend. "This community has seen fit to take me up social like, and I've taken up my own national game to keep in shape."

"I've got a bigger game on than golf, Scottie, and I hoped you would like to take a hand in it with me."

He paused suggestively and Scottie rose to the bait. "What is the case, laddie?" When the story was concluded he remarked briefly:

"I'm with you. It may be a madhouse we're going to but it sounds to me like something very different."

CHAPTER III

Just after the dinner hour that evening, Sergeant Miles, alias William Brown, the new house-

man, presented himself at the kitchen door of the square old Colonial house in which so many generations of the Drake family had lived.

An elderly butler made his appearance.

"The new houseman? Miss Drake will see you in the servants' sitting-room."

Almost immediately a tall, gray-haired woman entered.

"My niece engaged you at our usual agency?" Her voice was deeply contralto and it seemed to Miles that her bright, dark eyes beneath the strong brows were attempting to bore him through. "Did she explain the duties which would be required of you?"

"Everything is quite satisfactory, William," she said, after he had answered the routine questions. "We will give you a trial. Carter will show you to your room and Pierre will have some supper prepared for you in the servants' dining-room."

Carter, the butler, reappeared and led the way up two flights of back stairs to a small but immaculate room at the side of the house. Miles waited until he heard the others' footsteps descending the stairs before he extinguished the light and raised the shade.

As he looked across the grounds, a shambling male figure strolled down the driveway. It was assuredly neither the rotund chief nor the elderly, dignified butler. Could it be the 'outside man' or was there an eavesdropper, an interloper hanging about the place?

Descending to the ground floor, Miles wandered out through the entry and across the driveway. The hour was growing late and it was probable that he would have no opportunity that night to encounter the three brothers. Miles turned just as the shambling figure came sauntering around the bushes.

"What you doin' here?" The negro's teeth were chattering in his head.

"Who are you?" Miles countered amiably. "I'm William Brown, the new houseman."

"Dat's de truth? I'm Ripides Lunt, Rip for short, night watchman till midnight an' most every-thing else outdoors in de day-time."

"Why, what's the matter?" Miles laughed. "There can't be any danger of tramps or burglars?"

Ripides chewed ruminatively for a moment.

"There's more dan tramps an' thieves can come sashayin' 'round. Some mighty funny things goin' on in dis here neighborhood lately an' when de next comes off it's goin' to be where Rip Lunt ain't—I got to be movin'!"

Without encountering the reluctant watchman again, Miles entered the house and made his way up the back stairs to his own room.

All was dark on that side of the house now save in the room just below his own.

Someone was pacing the floor of that room below with a measured tread which told of deep concentration.

Drawing on a dark bathrobe and slippers Miles opened his door noiselessly and crept down one flight of stairs, making for the door which he calculated as being directly under his own. He had gone but a few steps when a door across the hall opened with a jerk, and a short, almost burly figure with tousled brown hair and a heavy, sun-browned countenance crossed to the other door and turned the knob softly.

Miles was close enough to hear the subdued, yet urgent tones of the newcomer.

"Roger, let me in! I want to speak to you!"

"What is it, Andrew? Am I never to have any peace?" The door closed again behind the two and Miles crept to it and laid his ear close to the panel.

"It's just this, Roger; you'll go to pieces if you're not careful!" The hearty, slightly aggressive tones of Andrew Drake were louder now, but roughly affectionate.

"You gave yourself dead away to-night to that bug-hunting, weed-gathering nut, Grayle. He seems to be your best friend, but even he'll begin to think and talk like the rest of the town if you don't help to pass the whole thing off as a joke."

"Joke!" repeated Roger in trembling tones. "Is there any joke in what has descended upon us?"

"Look here!" Andrew spoke with the patient, incisive emphasis of one imparting a lesson. "Hobart had a drop too much aboard when he went out and made that Julius Caesar speech, and your lecture was an ill-advised bit of pleasantry, while I was only playing a trick this morning to scare that fool Edward. Got that straight?"

A moan was Roger's only answer and Andrew growled: "What's your idea, then? Do you want the whole town to think that we are afflicted?" There had been a palpable pause before the last word.

"Aren't we?" Roger's voice was vibrant with sudden tragedy. "Haven't we been for years, even though we three have managed until now to conceal it from the rest of the world? What is the end going to be? I can see the writing on the wall and I tell you that I am not going to endure it until utter madness comes! There is a quick way out, quick and sure!"

STEADY HARVEST IS REAPED BY COUNTY IN OVERLOAD CASES

The county is reaping a steady harvest of fines from truckmen who stack their trucks with loads in excess of the legal weight limit, it was revealed today by an inspection of records in Justice J. B. Cox's court.

Judge Cox has collected $60 in fines so far this week from violators of the load weight law. This amount brings the total for the month to $100.

The customary fine for such an offense has been $20 in the local court. The three who paid their "double eagles" this week were L. A. Johnston, R. S. Dyer and F. W. Carlsgard.

FILE ACTION TO WIN $800 ON NOTE CLAIM

Alleging that the sum of $800 was due him from Mercencena P. Garcia, Jesus Vramontes today filed an action in the superior court, seeking judgment for that amount.

The suit was based on an alleged note for $800, on which the plaintiff claimed only $100 had been paid.

DEFAULT IS ENTERED IN QUIET TITLE CASE

Default judgment in favor of William F. Slater and Ruth Slater, who filed suit against P. W. Sampson and others to quiet title to twenty acres of land, had been entered today in the superior court.

Judge K. S. Mahon, presiding in department 1, heard the case late Friday.

Unexpected!

a New "USCO"—
Better, Heavier, Longer Wearing
30x3½—$10.90 No Tax added
on Sale Now

USCO set the high value mark for 30 x 3½ tires when it originated the $10.90 price last fall.

USCO today betters that mark with a new and greater USCO—an USCO improved in many important ways.

For instance, a thicker tread—with a surer hold on the road—thicker side walls, adding strength and life to the tire.

And the price is $10.90—with the tax absorbed by the manufacturer.

Men have always looked to USCO for the biggest tire money's worth on the market.

They always get a bigger tire money's worth than they expect.

More Than a Store—An Institution

—The broad scope of the Chandler home furnishings service places it in a class by itself, making it an institution in Orange County not surpassed by any furniture store in the state in point of serving its own local community.

home furnishings exhibitions and make personal selections right at the big furniture producing centers.

—Chandler's wide range of stock enables one to make a suitable selection to furnish the most humble cottage or the finest residence.

—The sale of a piece of furniture at Chandler's is but the beginning of the transaction which is not completed until the article gives complete satisfaction and lasting service.

—Here you will find an assortment ranging from the most moderately priced patterns of good furniture to as finely built pieces as artisans can produce.

—For that reason we must be sure first that the quality is right, and second, that at the price quoted it must represent sterling value.

—The buying of our stocks is not confined to selections from manufacturers' catalogs and ordering through salesmen and jobbers. Members of the firm visit the great Eastern

—This is followed by careful, courteous delivery, and a home beautifying service which places at your disposal the experience of expert decorators, men who are qualified to suggest the most artistic arrangement of furniture, and who will assist in planning your draperies.

EVENING SALUTATION

The tree of knowledge is grafted upon the tree of life; and that fruit which brought the fear of death into the world, budding on immortal stock, becomes the fruit of the promise of immortality.—Sir Humphrey Davy.

COUNTY FAIR SUGGESTIONS

It is gratifying to note that plans for the Orange County Fair are going forward with encouraging rapidity. There is no time to be lost, and all possible expedition consistent with careful consideration is desirable and even necessary.

While, of course, this first fair must be a rush job, done under a tent on borrowed ground, it is to be hoped that the managers and directors of the enterprise, and the general public as well, will purpose and plan for a permanent fair, with its own ground and buildings. Indeed we understand this to be the goal of the Chamber of Commerce and Farm Bureau, and the object in urging it here is to approve of and co-operate with the plan of these organizations, and enlist as far as possible the approval and co-operation of our readers.

Another suggestion, respectfully submitted in the hope that it may be deemed worthy of consideration, is that the fair should be kept free from fake shows and camouflaged gambling. Make it a real county fair, dominated by exhibits of county products and craftsmanship, with high-class auxiliary art and commercial exhibits, musical recitals, social service features, etc.

And specialize in live stock. Make it easy for live stock to be exhibited, and make the premiums liberal. To help out in this respect the Register will, if agreeable to the fair managers, contribute $250 to the premium fund to be used as ADDED live stock premiums on stock owned and exhibited by Orange county people.

Possibly other firms, corporations and individuals will be disposed thus to encourage some special industry, and it would seem that the fair managers would do well to invite and encourage such co-operation—NOT to save the fair premium money, but to make the premiums larger and to bring out the very largest possible number of exhibits from Orange County people. Our fair will never amount to much if its exhibits must come in large measure from the outside and its premiums be won for the most part by outside exhibitors.

This must be the ORANGE COUNTY FAIR—a fair for, and by the people of Orange county; but of course with every possible opportunity, encouragement and courtesy extended to outside exhibitors.

Germany is now said to be suffering from "trade paralysis." Doubtless a case of financial thrombosis superinduced by high currency pressure.

UNION HOURS AT SCHOOL

A curriculum founded upon the principle of "a definite eight-hour day every day for every student" is being worked out at one of the smaller mid-western colleges. It is a program offering little encouragement to the college loafer or play-boy.

Under the plan, the president assures prospective students, no time clocks nor monitors will be used. The course of study and the standards of scholarship required will just demand eight good hours of work a day to accomplish them.

There is a growing tendency in higher educational institutions to eliminate the lazy and unfit. It holds classes down in size and allows a better opportunity for students who truly desire the privilege of college training.

The plan proposed is a good one for securing the desired effect. A lazy student or a trifle may pass the stiffest entrance examination, but he will not linger long in an atmosphere of hard work.

The health of living babies is a greater problem than race suicide. Cutting infant death rate in two would be equivalent to increasing the birth rate on a big scale.

ACTION IN COAL STRIKE

It is unfortunate that efforts to settle the coal strike were not started when the strike itself was started—or indeed, before that. Operators and miners have been stubborn, and until lately the public has been apathetic, and the government, rightly or wrongly, has felt itself justified in intervening only as a last resort. Now it is evident to everybody that there must be action.

In the three idle months that have elapsed, there might have been worked out not only a settlement of the issues immediately involved but a rational plan for putting the loose-end coal industry on a permanently sound basis, if the parties concerned had gone about the matter with open mind and constructive purpose. Now it is hardly possible that anything but a temporary arrangement can be patched up for the present year. The imperative thing is to get the mines open again and the men back at work and coal hauled and stored for next winter.

It will be an achievement worth while to accomplish that. But having done that much, surely the occasion cannot be allowed to pass without undertaking the fundamental task of putting the coal industry on a basis that will avoid such deadlocks in the future, making disputes more readily adjustable and eliminating the hap-hazard methods that make coal mining a disgrace to an efficient industrial country.

If there's a "legislative log jam" at Washington, as the news dispatches say, can it be the result of too much congressional log-rolling?

LONGEST RADIO WAVE

Not Mars, but the General Electric Company at Schenectady, sent out those extremely long radio waves which Marconi received while cruising in the Mediterranean not long ago. At the time he received them it was impossible to locate their source, so that rumor arose to the effect that signals were at last coming from Mars.

Now that Marconi has visited the sending source and has talked over their experiments with officials of the General Electric Company, there is no need for chagrin or regret that the mystery is so simply solved. The marvel remains.

A wave length 150,000 meters long, five times as long as any previously obtained, is not to be disregarded simply because its origin was not a distant planet. Sent out along the trolley wires between Schenectady and Saratoga Springs, it is evident that the wave spread over practically the whole world. Its successful sending should mean more to us on this planet just now than if it had come from Mars.

GIRL SCOUT NURSES

Last year, according to word from headquarters, 1,829 Girl Scouts received home nurse badges as a mark of their proficiency in the fundamentals of home nursing. When asked what those fundamentals comprised in Scout practice, the director of the national council ran through a list which sounds only a little less complete than the accomplishments of a trained nurse.

The home nurse scout must be able to keep a sick room clean and comfortable, to make a bed properly, to help a sick person bathe, to make the patient comfortable in bed, to take temperature, pulse and respiration, and to prepare and serve simple, nourishing food. She must know how to feed a helpless person, to prepare and use simple home remedies for slight ailments, to move quickly and quietly, to guard against spreading disease, and to amuse a convalescent patient.

With the Red Cross teaching women all over the country first aid and home nursing, with the Girl Scouts learning home nursing, and with the leaders of the medical profession and public health officials out to do constructive health work for the prevention of disease, it begins to look as if a good deal of sickness and misery ought to be eliminated in this part of the world within a very few years.

Politics—Nothing Else

Riverside Press

The suits brought against Governor Stephens and other state officials regarding the use of federal highway funds are purely political—inspired by politics and featured by a few newspapers as a means of doing anti-administration politics.

The facts are very simple. The rate of interest fixed for the state highway bonds was so low that for a considerable time none could be sold at par; and such projects as the Banning to Browley highway were hung up for lack of funds. To tide over the situation until the people could vote to authorize a higher rate of interest which later they did, the plan was devised of using some of the federal highway moneys assigned to this state to bring the highway bond funds up to par. The state cannot sell any bond directly at a discount; and the board of control bid in the state bonds at par, later resold them at current rates and reimbursed the state with the federal money. The transaction was approved by the attorney general and by the federal highway officials as legal and proper. The federal funds were really applied to highway construction, though by a roundabout process.

There is no question of fraud or graft involved but only the technical point of the legality of the use of federal funds in the hands of the state for this specific purpose. Their use at the time was given the unqualified O. K. of the federal highway people and did make possible the continuance of highway work in the state that was badly needed for purposes of transportation and development.

The first suit regarding the use of the federal fund was brought by a discharged employee of the highway commission who was peevish because he lost his job; and later developments have been inspired by political enemies of the administration.

Waste of Child Life a Blight

Visalia Delta

Secretary Hoover, in an address before the national conference of social work at Providence, R. I., strongly urged renewed and increased efforts to end child labor. He expressed himself as favoring action, if possible, but added: "If that cannot be accomplished quickly, I regretfully join with those in favor of federal action." We hope the regret is not made more poignant because the federal constitutional amendment abolishing child labor, was originated by Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California.

It is cheering to learn that the states still in the dark ages in this respect are in the minority, but that fact alone is not sufficient. The entire country must swing into line for the protection and proper development of American childhood.

The child labor in a few states is unfair to industries in enlightened child-protecting states; it is perhaps one of the least important reasons for changing and improving existing conditions, yet it is worth considering. Mr. Hoover emphasizes other reasons.

"The moral and economic results of debilitated, illiterate and untrained manhood and womanhood that must spring from these cesspools, where child labor is encouraged and is legitimate, infect the entire nation."

"Waste of child life, whether viewed economically or in terms of common and universal betterment, is a blight that in its measure is more deplorable than war."

Public Rights Paramount

San Francisco Chronicle

President Harding's proclamation calling upon all good citizens to uphold the laws, to preserve the public peace and to facilitate operations essential to the public welfare, voices the real sentiment of the American people.

The rights of the public take precedence over the rights of individuals or groups of individuals. Whether irrespective of the relative merits of contention, urged by railroad operators on the one hand and by employees on the other hand the maintenance of the supremacy of the law remains the first obligation of the government and the citizenship of the country.

Interstate transportation and the carrying of the United States mails are essential to life, liberty, security of property and the public welfare. The controversy between the railroads and their employees cannot in justice to the public be permitted to interfere with the peaceful carrying on of these activities. President Harding, in the issuing of this proclamation, was actuated by the desire to uphold the law and by the hope that parties to the controversy would recognize the imperative necessity of bringing about a peaceful settlement of the dispute. Right thinking people of the country unhesitatingly join with him in that hope and expectation.

Prosperous Status of State

Pasadena Star-News

Confirmatory reports of the return of the country to economic normality continue to come from official sources. The federal department of labor gives assurance that "the Nation is striding vigorously toward industrial prosperity, employment increasing throughout the country by 3.2 per cent." It is observed that "this increase is remarkable, for the reason that it is made despite the unsettled conditions caused by the coal, cotton and textile and railroad controversies."

California shows virtually no unemployment. Its status is particularly bright and encouraging. Unemployment is vanishing as the ranches, orchards and vegetable gardens call for help. In truth, all standard forms of industry are feeling the impetus. This state is thriving, and the permanence of the prosperity seems to be assured. It is not a mushroom, ephemeral revival, but an enduring return to better times, there are the best of reasons to believe.

DEATH, THE SCULPTOR

Ever, withinward vision, I behold her hand
Just as I saw it on that parting day:
Serenely still, serenely calm, like to a fallen lily,
White as the wax of heavenly bees,
And faintly tinted with their honey.
Lightly the sleeping fingers drew together
As do the curved and carved petals of a flower,
And on the third, shimmered a line of gold,
A slender thread, worn thin by ceaseless action.
Across the pale-hued, lustrous surface
Wandered blue veins where still the life-blood seemed to flow,
Yet the whole gesture of the sculptured hand
Was of relinquishment, renunciation, peace.

FATAL IMPERIOUSNESS

A man who always obeyed, accompanied his wife to a place where the men were blasting hard rock in making a new road. A pool of clear water had formed in a hollow where the rock had been blown out, and the wife wished to give her little dog some aquatic exercise. Looking around for a stick to throw, she beckoned to her husband to throw her one of the nice, round, yellow sticks lying in a pile near the edge of the excavation.

"What, those? Why, my dear—"
"Do as I say!" she snapped.
He did so. The fragments of that imperious lady are falling yet.

IN THE LONG AGO

From the Register Files

JULY 19, 1908

Forest Supervisor Marshall suggests that all Orange county residents take a trip to Trabuco to witness the destruction caused by a forest fire. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

J. W. Morrison of Orange, chairman of the Republican county central committee, today refused to call the committee together to consider the rescinding of the appointment of delegates to the state and congressional conventions. The request for such action was made by a committee of three appointed at Saturday's mass meeting.

Otto Kolberg, while driving a party of young people through Orange, ran his Buick demonstration car into a Santa Fe train which was standing on the tracks. Kolberg, running his car within a few feet of the train put his foot on the low step instead of the brake. Kolberg explained the accident by saying that he had recently changed from a Mitchell to a Buick and mistook the low for the brake.

E. R. Curtis is today explaining a mud bath accident in Trabuco canyon yesterday. While on a hunting trip with Theo. Winbigler, H. J. Forgy, Bob Huffman and his brother, and D. L. Anderson, Curtis was sent ahead of the car to investigate a mud hole in the road. During the investigation Curtis took a mud bath.

Farm Mortgages

Number of farms reporting mortgage debt (1920), 1,193,878; (1910), 1,006,511, according to The World Almanac.

Value of mortgaged land and buildings: (1920), $13,772,610; (1910), $6,320,226.951.

The per cent of increase in value of mortgaged land buildings, 1910 to 1920, was 117.6.

The total number of farms operated by their owners in the United States on January 1, 1920, according to the fourteenth census, was 3,925,090. Of this number it is estimated that 1,611,378, or more than 41 per cent, were mortgaged and 2,313,712 were free from mortgage.

In 1910 there were 3,948,722 farms operated by their owners. Of this number 1,327,439, or 33.6 per cent, were mortgaged and 2,621,283 free from mortgage.

In New York State, of 151,717 farms operated by owners, 75,522 are free from mortgage.

Don'ts for Canoeists

The rudiments for canoeists are as follows:
Don't go canoeing if you can't swim.

Paddle quickly to the shore if you have a passenger who thinks it funny to rock the only foundation between you and death.

It might be well to be repeated for the millionth time—be satisfied with the seat you took when you started.

If you do capsize, don't try to climb back into the canoe; not many can do it.

Do not grab for anybody's neck when the canoe rises, just lay hands on it and rest.

PRESS COMMENT ON STATE POLITICS

MR. MOORE A CANDIDATE.

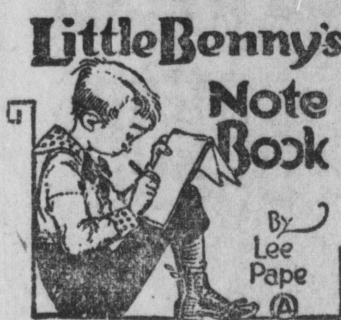

Santa Paula Chronicle—After much labor, the opposition to the re-election of United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson has, finally, brought forth—Chas. C. Moore, who will be a candidate against Senator Johnson at the primary election. After that event, Mr. Moore will take a more or less prominent place in the back seats, in company with the Willis J. Booths, and others, who, at various times, have allowed themselves to become representatives of the "anything to get Johnson" element of which the esteemed Los Angeles Times is a shining light.

Mr. Moore is a San Francisco engineer, who, some years ago, was at the head of the Panama-Pacific Fair at San Francisco. Mr. Moore is an unknown quality, politically considered, but the opponents of the senior Senator from California simply had to have a candidate to represent them and now they have one.

The rank and file of the people of California, however, will, in the opinion of the Chronicle, realize that it were wise politics and good business for them to continue in office a man who has served them faithfully and with commanding ability.

DESERVES RE-ELECTION.

Stockton Record—William J. Stephens has made a good governor. His popularity has been so widely admitted that thus far even his political enemies have been unable to find a candidate of strength to oppose him. Governor Stephens will go to the polls practically unopposed and his re-election will be merely a matter of formality. It is well that this is so, for the governor has been devoted to his people and he is deserving of such a testimonial of their loyalty to him. We move to make it unanimous for Stephens in November.

THE HUCKSTER

Whose voice do I hear coming
About a mile away?
Ah tis the merry huckster
Yelling war he has to say.

He's got cabbages and orindges
And beans and other stuff,
He may not be very proud of it
But he repeats it often enuff.

He makes as much noise as possible
And more than necessary.
For his voice alone is loud enuff
But he yells through his hand to make it very.

And anybody that wants anything
Jest picks it out and pays,
While the ones that would rather Not hear him

Haff to listen anyways,
His horse is thin and pointy
And its knees seem to be on wrong.

And it properly got that hungry look Heering about food all day long.

O his voice dies away in the distant
And his waggin disappears from site.
He wont be erround today eny more
But cheer up, tomorro he mite.

Pig Iron Outlook

Times steadily get better. You see this indicated in the old reliable barometer, pig iron production.

In June, 236 tons of pig iron were turned out by the furnaces for each 86 tons in July, 1921.

The gain is enormous. Best of all, it is not a sensational overnight recovery. Instead, it is the result of a steady climb that has been going on 11 months. Slow recovery is apt to be permanent. A sick man who gets on his feet too soon usually has a relapse and goes back to bed.

The Gambler

By Berton Braley

I know that charts statistical
Will show you shouldn't marry
Until your honorarium
Is quite extraordinary.
But I am optimistical
About what love can do,
For in its sweet delirium
Most any dream comes true.

So, go ahead and marry her
Before you lose romance,
For love leaps every barrier
If you will take a chance.

Life's brief; you lose the fun of it
Unless you share together
Some seasons of fragility.
Some times of heavy weather.

Luck varies—face the run of it
And, spite of strain and stress,
You'll find that life's totality
Foots up to happiness!

So, go ahead and marry her,
Dull figures do not count—
There isn't any barrier
That love cannot surmount.

I know I'm preaching heresy,
So cautious folks repeat,
But if you have a salary
That's big enough to meet
Food, rent, and clothes, I swear I

Small reason for delay,
Although the cynics' gallery
May have a lot to say.

So, go ahead and marry her,
Forget the cautious stuff,
For poverty's no barrier
If you have love enough!

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Phil Frog Takes Revenge

By Olive Roberts Barton

Phil Frog had a busy time of it. He was the best-natured person you'd ever meet and yet he had more enemies than a fish has scales.

Oscar Owl made Phil jump a yard every time he went "Whoow!"

Marty Mink gave Phil a cold chill every time his shadow fell on the still waters of Lily Pond.

And Cob Coon and Phil couldn't live in the same house.

But the one Phil dreaded most was Dave Duck.

Oscar and Marty and Cob could only make Phil's life miserable on dry land (although Marty was a pretty good swimmer), but Dave Duck could chase him on land and water and even under the water.

Phil hid under his lily-pod house and watched Dave's yellow feet pishing about on top of the water.

Push, push, paddle, paddle! went Dave's feet overhead until Phil could stand the sight of them no longer. One could never tell with the foot were going to kick up into the air, and Dave's yellow bill suddenly take their place under the water. One snap and that would be the end of Mr. Frog.

One day Phil had an idea. He hoped in among the slime and weeds where Poky Pickler lived and whispered something into Poky's ear.

"Will you?" he asked anxiously.

"Sure!" said Poky obligingly.

By and by Dave came along, somersaulting and snapping up things and gobbling them down again. He didn't see Poky right under him.

Suddenly something else snapped. It was Poky Pickler's jaw; this time and they snapped on Dave Duck's foot.
